This is George—a reconverted, though not quite readjusted version of the war-time gremlin.

We think that he is appropriately symbolic of the readjustments our students have had to make in a year of renewed activities, peak enrollment, and a more serious outlook on higher education. Like George's personality, things have been alternately concordant and confusing, but never dull.

It has been the best college year we've seen for a long time, and it has showed promise of even better ones to come.

SPEAKING

To MR. HAROLD GRIFFITH SUTTON

the Director of Admissions, the staff dedicates the 1947 Cherry Tree in recognition of and appreciation for his twenty-six years of service to The George Washington University. Mr. Sutton, a graduate of Ohio State and Columbia Universities, came to George Washington in 1921 as an Assistant Professor of Economics. He later became Associate Professor of Economics and in 1929 was appointed Registrar. Mr. Sutton assumed his present position as Director of Admissions in 1930, when the total number of students at George Washington numbered around seven and a half thousand, including those enrolled in the Schools of Law and Medicine. He has therefore had a chance to witness and play an active part in the rapid and overwhelming growth of the university. At present he is concerned with the greatly increased demand for admission to the university and is facing with confidence the administrative problems associated with an expanding and increasingly important institution.

CHERRY TREE BEAUTIES

JOHN ROBERT POWERS

JOHN ROBERT POWERS

January 13th, 1947

Miss Marjorie McMullen
Editor, "Cherry Tree", Features
GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
4030 Calvert Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Miss McMullen:

It has been a great pleasure to select the winners for your yearbook, "Cherry Tree." The photographs of the candidates, which you submitted, were all so attractive that I found it difficult to make a decision. It was also difficult to make my selection without seeing and talking to each contestant.

The winners were selected on the basis of personality, character, and intelligence, as well as for natural beauty. My choice was influenced, of course, by my great interest in and admiration for the Natural Girl.

If the contestants are ever in New York, it would be a pleasure to meet them. With best wishes to the contestants, to the staff of the "Cherry Tree" and to the students of GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, I am

Sincerely yours,

John Robert Powers

WHO'S WHO

"Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" is published annually with the co-operation of over six hundred institutions throughout the country. Students selected for listing in this volume are representative of the outstanding personalities in their respective schools. The required qualities for nomination and final listing are character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, and the possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

The students representing The George Washington University are selected by a committee made up of members of the faculty and the student body with the registrar acting as chairman. The committee remains anonymous and acts on suggestions from THE HATCHET and from student leaders.

Encouraging the attainment of superior scholastic standing is the aim of Alpha Lambda Delta. The honorary chooses as members freshman women who have attained an average of 3.5 or higher and who have completed at least fifteen hours.

The G. W. chapter has been strictly a scholastic organization with less emphasis on social activity. In the fall chapter members gave a tea in conjunction with Phi Eta Sigma to welcome freshman scholarship winners from the local high schools and to encourage them in their future college work. Members also sponsored the presentation of a book to the senior woman with the highest scholastic average.

A nation-wide organization with chapters in approximately fifty universities, Phi Eta Sigma is an honorary fraternity for men who have attained a scholastic average of at least 3.5 during either semester of their freshman year. The essential purpose of the society is the recognition and encouragement of scholarship in the university as the foundation of one's entire college career.

In addition to a scholarship tea conducted each year in conjunction with Alpha Lambda Delta, the organization awards each year to the freshman man ranking highest in scholarship a book in his field of major interest and inscribes his name on a permanent plaque in the office of the dean of the Junior College.

Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honorary society, annually elects students for outstanding work in the fields of history, political science, economics, or composite fields. Founded at Southwestern College in 1924, the society's Beta Chapter was organized on the George Washington campus in 1930.

The particular purpose of the society is to send out from colleges and universities young men and women trained in scientific thought, imbued with social idealism, and encouraged to help others to be scientific in their thinking on social questions.

Mortar Board responded to the increased tempo of campus life with a crowded program including several new projects. The five members, elected on the basis of leadership, scholarship and outstanding service to the University, carried on the traditional projects of manning the Information Booth during registration, conducting the Freshman Tour and awarding a silver cup to the Outstanding Sophomore Woman.

To aid freshman women scholarship students, Mortar Board held an informal get-together before fall registration. Members supplied information on University activities and courses, and helped the girls to straighten out their programs. As a part of Freshman orientation the group held a panel discussion on "How To Get A Good Start At G. W. And Keep Going."

In recognition of high scholarship among junior and senior women the chapter held a "Smarty Party" just before the Christmas holidays. Columbian House, complete with pine boughs and a Christmas tree, furnished a festive background for the afternoon's fun.

Main service project of the year was the inauguration of Tassels, a sophomore honorary. Members of this group, chosen on the basis of scholarship and potential service in activities carried on a Leadership Training Course as their own service project. The Career conference, held again this year, featured outstanding women from 9 different fields.

The group's busy schedule also included a Fall Alumnae Association reception at the White House and the Founders Day breakfast in February.

Pi Lambda Theta holds the distinction of being the first educational fraternity at George Washington. Members are elected from women whose scholarship ranks in the upper fourth of the School of Education, and who have shown high professional interest, outstanding leadership, and exceptional promise in the field of education.

Monthly meetings were conducted this year on the theme "Education for the Atomic Age," and featured both speakers and discussions. The annual William Carl Ruediger lecture was held in the fall with Dr. Francis Brown as speaker. His topic, "Changing Patterns of Federal Relationships with Education," was both enjoyable and enlightening.

Members enjoyed many social events this year, including a picnic at the home of Phyllis Nichols during the summer, a banquet and meeting with Phi Delta Kappa in January, and an initiation luncheon each semester at which new members were welcomed.

Seated: H. Olney, President; J. Ayers, Vice-President. Standing: C. Krafft, Treasurer; A. Digiulian, Corresponding Secretary; M. Tate, Record Keeper.

Promoting the interest of young women in chemistry is the primary aim of Iota Sigma Pi, national honorary sorority. At monthly meetings prominent women chemists related interesting recent developments in the various fields of chemistry.

The annual laboratory supper held in the qualitative lab was the outstanding social event. There aspiring women chemists had an opportunity to meet women who have obtained their degrees and who are working in numerous chemical laboratories in Washington.

During the 1946-1947 year four meetings were opened to interested outsiders.

Sigma Tau is an honorary engineering fraternity whose purpose is to recognize the scholastic and professional achievements of engineering students. Members are chosen not only for scholastic ability but also for practicability and sociability. Students in the upper third of the Junior and Senior classes are considered for membership.

Sigma Tau has worked this year upon a program of increasing the store of engineering books, handbooks, and reference books in the library, and has offered coaching assistance to those Engineering students who desire it.

Socially the fraternity was active in holding its annual banquet at the Blackstone Hotel in January.

Re-activated this year for the first time since the war, Gate and Key has again taken its place on campus. Recognizing outstanding fraternity service, it elects to membership those men who have contributed most to their respective fraternities. Tapping ceremonies are held once a year at one of the large university dances.

Founded at Syracuse University in 1902, Pi Delta Epsilon has been honoring outstanding work in journalism at George Washington since 1922. Meetings are held to discuss campus publications and make suggestions for their improvement. Members are chosen on the basis of exceptional work on one or more of the University publications and are initiated at the fraternity's annual banquet. This year Dottie Henry, Rusty Schiff, and Larry Woodward were tapped at the Homecoming Ball.

Perhaps some future Shakespearean actors and Hollywood stars may be found among the members of Pi Epsilon Delta, national honorary dramatics fraternity. Members, chosen from outstanding performers in Cue and Curtain productions, recognize a two-fold purpose: to award recognition to deserving college students for dramatic ability and to assist in the growth of the collegiate theater.

Two tapping ceremonies were held this year—the first in the winter and the second at the annual spring banquet of Cue and Curtain. Plans were made for sponsoring a campus student review as main project of the year.

ALPHA PI EPSILON

The primary purpose of Alpha Pi Epsilon is the promotion and encouragement of high standards of scholarship among Home Economics students.

Members continued the project of raising funds for a sound movie projector to be used in Home Ec classes, and sponsored a general Home Ec club open to all interested students. Versatility in the field of Home Ec was the theme stressed in the by-monthly meetings, at which the speakers proved that there is no limit to the possibilities of Home Economics.

On the social side there was the annual Christmas Party, to which members brought food and clothing for charity; the Founder's Day Banquet held in January; and the spring initiation ceremonies.

PHI DELTA GAMMA

Phi Delta Gamma, national fraternity for graduate women, is the only Greek letter organization whose membership is open to women of all professional interests who are studying in the graduate schools or advanced professional schools.

The fraternity's purpose is two-fold: to promote the highest professional ideals among women of the graduate schools; and to advance the social welfare and activities of these women.

Membership is based upon character, high scholarship, ability, and leadership in professional fields, co-operative spirit and personality. The fraternity numbers among its members women from every school and department in the university.

The theme for the program of meetings this year was "International Thinking on Post-War Problems," and representatives from leading embassies were scheduled as speakers.

Phi Delta Kappa, an honorary educational fraternity for men, has as its purpose the promotion of free public education along democratic lines. Members are elected from the school of education on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and contributions to the field of education. The fraternity strives to interpret the ideals of research, service, and leadership and to translate them into a program of action appropriate to the needs of public education.

Biggest social event of the year was a joint banquet and meeting held with Pi Lambda Theta during the winter season.

Activities of the Student Council this year were both numerous and worthwhile. Under the leadership of Larry Strickland, the Council conducted weekly meetings which were open to all interested students. The Council acquired new headquarters this year, and moved its office to the first floor of Columbian House.

Unquestionably the biggest event of the year for G. W. was the first Homecoming in four years. Sponsored by the Council, the big week end lasted from November 15-17 and included a parade and pep rally on Friday night, followed by fraternity open houses, the homecoming game with William and Mary on Saturday afternoon, and a banquet and dance at the Mayflower Hotel with Hal McIntyre's Orchestra. The dance, acclaimed by all as the outstanding social success of the year, featured the crowning of Billie Klapp as Homecoming Queen.

In addition, the Council carried on many other projects to benefit the student body and the university. The Student Union Committee, organized to investigate the possibilities of a Student Union Building, worked hard conducting polls of student opinion on a proposed activity fee. The Student-Faculty Committee, inaugurated this year, worked to solve problems which have arisen due to the increased enrollment. The Forum Committee sponsored open round table discussions which began with a panel concerning November elections and presented Representatives and Senators as speakers. Under the auspices of the Council, a Student Handbook was printed which contained all pertinent information concerning campus organizations. The projects of sponsoring charity drives and Buff and Blue "dry night clubs" were successfully continued this year.

Council members have worked hard to further the interests of the students and have helped to make this the kind of university the students want.

The Interfraternity Council, revitalized by the return to activity of five fraternities and by the admission of a new member, resumed its important work on campus. Composed of one delegate from each fraternity, the Council governs the relations of the fraternities, and organizes the rush, intramural, and social programs of the fraternity system.

This year the Council adopted a new and somewhat experimental rushing program, standardized cup awards, and outlined the year's program in advance, with emphasis on an improved intramural program. The Interfraternity Smoker held in the fall was the largest in the school's history, and even the oldest alumnus agreed that the rush season was the most successful held yet. The Interfraternity Sing was re-established as a major University event along with the Interfraternity Prom.

This first year of complete re-activation will be remembered as one of the finest in the Council's history, with each fraternity giving full cooperation to assure the success of every program sponsored.

The Interfraternity Pledge Council was re-activated during the fall term after a brief inactive period caused by the war. Composed of one representative from each social fraternity, the Council strives through its various activities to introduce pledges to the university and to each other so that better interfraternity relationship will be developed.

This year the Council did not sponsor the traditional Goat Show and formal dance since its job of reorganizing took up so much time. These activities, however, have been planned for next year in addition to several new projects. After successfully organizing, the Council is looking forward to a program of activity and achievement.

The Panhellenic Council is composed of two delegates from each sorority, with the President of each serving as a member ex-officio.

Biggest project of this year was the inauguration of a new rush system which greatly simplified the process for rushees and sorority girls alike. A chapter limitation of 65 was set up, with a total of 181 girls pledged by all sororities.

This year the Council was unusually active, giving a number of teas, helping actively with Homecoming festivities, supervising Junior Panhellenic, cooperating with the Interfraternity Council in joint sponsorship of the Hospital Drive, holding the Panhellenic sing which has now become a traditional spring event, and climaxing the year with the popular Panhellenic Prom at the Shoreham Hotel.

The Council welcomed a new member this year as Gamma Kappa Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta came on campus and also recognized Omicron Alpha, a new organization for unaffiliated Greek women in the university.

The Junior Panhellenic Association, composed of one representative from each sorority's pledge class, seeks to coordinate pledge activities and discuss problems common to all pledge classes.

Activities for the year were chiefly social. Members gave a tea dance on Strong Hall roof in November to which all fraternity and sorority pledges were invited. Here all the campus neophytes got acquainted and declared the dance a wonderful idea. In December Junior Panhel sponsored the annual Goat Show which was held in Lisner Auditorium for the first time. Before a record breaking crowd the sororities presented unusually expert skits which drew enthusiastic response. The winning cup went to Sigma Kappa for their clever take-off of "Casey at the Bat." Alpha Delta Pi's hilarious "Revolt of the Comic Strips" was judged a close second, and "Touchdown Topics" by Phi Sigma Sigma won third place.

Working in close cooperation with Senior Panhellenic the Juniors planned and carried out an exceptionally fine year's program.

The Religious Council was formed for the purpose of coordinating the activities of the eight religious clubs. Composed of one representative from each club, the Council plans a variety of projects. This year it sponsored and advertised the weekly chapel services, held a Religious Emphasis Week in December and was in charge of the Fall and Spring Fellowship meetings. Through these Council activities, students of all faiths can meet together to discuss ideas and share opportunities for worship and fellowship.

The University Chapel is maintained as a non-sectarian expression of Christian and Hebrew faith. It has clearly shown the contribution that religion can make to the campus. Students preside over the 20 minute services held in Columbian House every Friday at 12:10 p.m. The Chapel Committee plans the program with the help of Dr. Burnice H. Jarman, Director of Religious Activities, and guest ministers who are outstanding leaders in their churches are invited to speak. The simple dignity of the services is inspiring and helpful to students who often find solutions for their problems in these straightforward and practical talks.

The Student Life Committee gets its authority from the Board of Trustees and its members are appointed by President Marvin. The committee's duties are legislative in determining policies of student life, and judiciary in judging qualifications of candidates and seeing that all organizations meet certain standards.

Composed of both faculty and student members, the Committee meets whenever expedient. Student members are generally recommended by the Student Council, and the size of their representation may vary from year to year.

The Publications Committee is composed of faculty and student members who concern themselves with all campus publications and make recommendations to the president of the university as to proposed new publications. Their aim is to maintain campus publications on as high a level as possible.

The committee co-operates with the Student Life Committee in fostering greater student participation in activities. It supervises editorial appointments on staffs of various campus publications such as the HATCHET, the literary magazine, and the GRIND.

The committee welcomes suggestions concerning publications from any student group.

Offering keen competition in a variety of sports, the Women's Athletic Association provides an opportunity for all interested women of the university to participate in the sport of their choice.

During the fall season field hockey and soccer became paramount over tennis, riding, and archery. Highlighting this season, was the Play Day at Hood College. The annual Fall Awards Banquet held on December 11 at the Roger Smith Hotel was attended by over seventy-five sports enthusiasts and ended the fall season. The Upperclassmen were awarded both the Soccer and Field Hockey cups.

Interest in basketball reached an unusual peak during the winter season. Under the able guidance of Miss Lawrence, over a dozen of the most skilled feminine hoopsters gave a practical demonstration for a city-wide audience of coaches and players at the Y.W.C.A.

On March 7 Hood and Goucher joined us in a Round Robin Play Day. The most exciting contests were in basketball.

Popular spring sports included softball, swimming, tennis, and archery. The spring season ended with the swimming meet and annual Spring Awards Banquet.

To promote a friendly spirit among the twelve campus sororities, the Inter-Sorority Athletic Board provides an opportunity for sorority members to participate in competitive sports.

The Board, composed of two members from each sorority, sponsors a series of tournaments throughout the year and gives a cup to the sorority winning the most events. Chi Omega was presented with this cup last year after winning four of the tournaments.

Competition has been keen this year among the athletically-inclined Greeks. The volley-ball tournament was won by Chi Omega, while Kappa Delta carried off the bowling honors. Tournaments in badminton, swimming, ping-pong, and individual sports rounded out the year's program.

It is Sunday night, 2 a.m. The campus is deserted—the far-off whistling of the night watchman on his rounds is the only sound. But wait—there are 200 watts shining out of the second-story window of a mangy red brick building on 21st Street.

Suddenly a shrill shriek pierces the night air—relax at the Third Precinct, it's only Dottie Henry with her usual tale of woe. "Ray", she wails, "think up a headline for this blasted thing—not more than 20½ picas. Song titles are always good for editorial headlines."

News Editor Ray Glasscock looks up from his copy of Police Gazette. "How about 'I'm Gonna Move To The Outskirts of Town'?" "But it counts out too long", she mutters absently. Then, as penetration sets in, she howls, "Get serious!"

"Say, something's wrong," yells Kay Cristoph from a corner, "according to this story I'm proofing, the Glee Club is holding a smoker in Dr. Marvin's office for the benefit of Big Sisters. Do you think I ought to mark it for rewrite?"

The windows rattle slightly as Merv Lewis tiptoes in from the sports room "Cripes, who writes these women's sports", he rages, "So the Polkadots beats the Glow Girls.—Ain't that nice!"

Kay Shanahan breezes in. "Sorry I'm late, but omigosh these medical board du-flunkies! How much space do I have for 'Skin and Bones,' Jeannette?"

Society Editor Rayner looks concerned and mutters, "Oh, just write it! I'm so fouled up now I'm considering the Calvert Street Bridge!"

"Make it long-winded", Ray tells her, "we'll cut it at the plant".

"That's no attitude!", scream Hanck and Henry in chorus.

Leigh Curry and Evie Schoelen saunter in, laden with coffee and sandwiches. "They only had salami", apologizes Evie, "and no mustard".

Nancy is blue-pencilling "Foggy Bottom". "Flanders, this stuff is libelous!"

"Well you don't have to cut out all the interesting items!", Bob counters.

The phone rings. "Who at this hour?"—asks Merv. "Oh, hello, Rusty. Okay, I'll tell them—Rusty says to leave some papers in Corcoran this week. She woke up in a cold sweat because she dreamed the Engineers were choking her when they couldn't find their Hatchets."

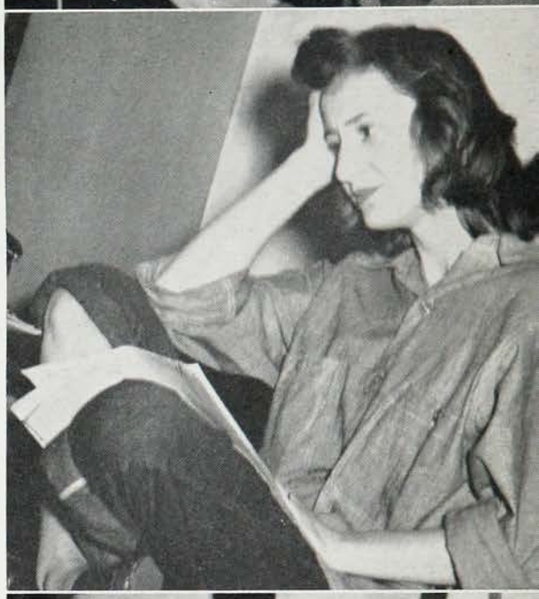

Paul Thompson finds a note on the floor—"Mary Jo and Mary Jane are writing a new poem and they want to use the word —".

"Sandy McKeel," Dottie pages, "I can't find 'Under The Ax'. Would you look in the wastebasket, please?"

The Cherry Tree

August, 1946 . . . On the first anniversary of the atomic bomb, another bomb bursts—this time on the G.W. campus. While other GWites are cooling off at the beaches, the CHERRY TREE eds are gathered around the table in Publications Office, bursting with colossal ideas. Bobby's big plans and Hanby's very restricting budget get together to allow for a 180 page book . . .

September . . . summertime—and the eds are still enthusiastic. Lots of time and big ideas. Hanby has to stretch the budget to allow for 190 pages—inflation affects the CHERRY TREE, too . . .

October . . . School opening and everything is in full swing . . . Larry comes breezing in with stacks of subscription books and launches a big sales contest . . . Cammy is seen prowling around in remote sections of town to fill up the ad section . . . George the Gremlin puts in his appearance and gums up the works the rest of the year . . . Bobby declares that 200 pages is the ABSOLUTE limit . . .

November . . . Inflation hits the CHERRY TREE in earnest . . . Woodward and staff proudly break all previous circulation records . . . Mary Olga reports hundreds of people waiting to have their pics taken . . . 25 new organizations signed contracts . . . Sally is slightly caption-happy since the group photographer has arrived . . . Marge declares this year's beauties to be more so than ever . . . Hanby says 210 pages is impossible . . .

December . . . Comes the rainy season—the C.T. office is deluged with thousands of photos, write-ups, ads, and invitations to journalism conventions. Editor's roommate threatens murder, suicide, or both if phone doesn't stop ringing—if you're looking for a room to rent, please don't call the CHERRY TREE. The Organizations staff spends the holidays with typewriters on their laps and blank looks on their faces . . . Bobby is going to open her Christmas presents in March . . . looks like the book will have 220 pages—happy holiday everybody!

January . . . Dilemma—deadline—dismay—dementia—every day the wagon comes to haul away another screaming ed . . . faces without names, pics without captions, captions without pics, organizations without officers, contracts without signatures, office without heat, Hayes without a darkroom, the number of pages in the book without limit (230 as of the last count)

February . . . the staff is completely beat . . . Bobby taking 21 hours so she won't forget how it feels to work . . . Hayes reported to have thrown his camera in the river . . . Joy suffering from battle fatigue and acute typewriter thrombosis . . . Trudy going into hiding to complete her best seller, "How to Lose Friends and Alienate People" . . . Jackie touchy on the subject of gremlins . . . Hanby and the budget seeing a lot of each other . . . Larry still trying to collect final payments . . . Sue and Manny finally buying the books for their last semester's courses . . . everyone devoid of inspiration. The book goes to press with 238 pages. When you come around in May to pick up this copy, please bring a friend along to carry it around for you.

In its fifteen years of publication THE GEORGE WASHINGTON REVIEW has established for itself an important place in the field of legal periodicals. It is published four times a year by the faculty and students of the Law School.

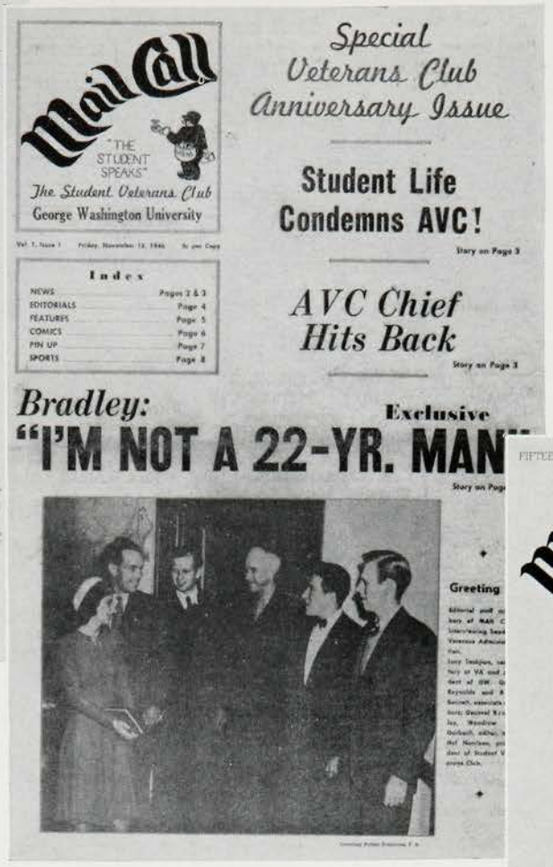

Student members of the staff are selected from third-year students on the basis of scholarship and interest in legal research. In addition to credit of four semester hours, they receive training in legal analysis, research, and writing, which in turn encourages development of a detailed knowledge of current legal problems not otherwise obtainable.

The LAW REVIEW specializes in Federal law, although it is not limited to that field. The four principal types of material appearing in each issue are Leading Articles, usually by members of the Bar who are experts on given subjects; Editorial Notes and Recent Case Notes, both by student members of the staff; and Book Reviews, written by students and critics.

MAIL CALL, publication of the Student Veterans Club, began its career in 1945 as a mimeographed sheet. Last September, under the leadership of Woody Gorbach, the staff was entirely reorganized and plans were made for a really sensational first issue. Together with Gary Reynolds, Bob Barnett, Leo Shampain, Jay Gluck, Chuck Cowell and Lynn Levine, Editor Gorbach worked feverishly to produce this issue which was introduced on campus in November.

MAIL CALL operates on an independent basis, meeting all expenses from advertising and sale of papers at five cents a copy. The paper endeavors to give an overall picture of the academic and social life of veteran students.

Due to tremendous response from the student body, MAIL CALL staff decided to publish bi-monthly issues starting with the winter term. With one successful year already completed, MAIL CALL looks forward to even greater goals.

Remember, don't borrow a MAIL CALL—buy one!

Cue and Curtain's four dramatic performances this year have offered a variety of talent and have been especially well put on. With its presentations of "Of Thee I Sing" and "Richard III" last spring and "Blithe Spirit" and "Winterset" in the fall, Cue and Curtain has received enthusiastic support.

"Of Thee I Sing", the year's musical production, was ably put across, despite the fact that Bill McClellan, scheduled to play Wintergreen, was taken to the hospital on the opening night. Jack Giblette took over and starred with Betty Lou Trowbridge, Carolee Arnold, Bert Awalt, and Andy Lentz.

The final spring production was "Richard III", Cue and Curtain's first Shakespearean venture. Highlighted by the excellent performance of Andy Lentz, the play was so successful that the players chose another Shakespearean play, "King Lear", for this spring's production. Assisted by Dr. Fred Tupper, "Sparkie" presented "Richard III"' in a single set, effecting some changes by the use of lights and combining the five acts of the two plays into two.

The first production of the fall season was Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit". Drucie Snyder as Madame Arcati and Grace Pearson as Elvira received rave notices and helped make the performance a real hit. Quin Davies, Marme Winterfield, Frank Falkenhainer, Dick Winfrey, and Jane Drew completed the highly regarded cast.

Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset" provided the mystery element to the season's schedule, with Jerry Raker as Mio, Jane Drew as Mirrianne, Bert Awalt as Trock, Orel Leonard as Judge Gaunt, and Paul Cantor as Shadow. Played in a single set of professional quality done by Jane Summers and Bob Stevens, "Winterset" also drew raves from the critics.

With Sparkie as director and so many capable actors, actresses, and workers in the organization, Cue and Curtain looks both back upon and forward to campus support and appreciation.

GLEE CLUB

With the return of male voices to rehearsals, the Glee Club took on a pre-war atmosphere and sang even louder and better than usual. In order that the entire campus could benefit from their musical efforts, the girls' noon rehearsals were held in the basement of Government. This resulted in Handel's "Messiah" echoing all around 21st and G during the big 12 o'clock rush.

"Doc" Harmon caught the spirit, too, and planned enough exciting events to keep even the most avid Glee Clubber happy. During the Christmas season the Club sang for several organizations. In addition to its annual Christmas concert held in Lisner Auditorium, members sang at the Statler Hotel on December 27 and gave a concert for the Colonial Dames. Spring fever made everyone even more enthusiastic—they practiced three times a week to make the Easter Concert a success and then turned in to prepare for the annual Spring Concert and dance in May. Incidentally, members acclaimed last year's dance so terrific that they gave one after the Christmas Concert too.

With their long list of fun and achievements, "Doc" and his Glee Clubbers have found that singing can be the key to a successful college career.

In the years since Orchesis has been active on campus, modern dance has come to hold a major place in student activities. Always maintaining a high standard of quality, Orchesis has furthered dance as an art form.

The original production group has branched into many levels of apprenticeship. Orchesis I, the top honorary group, is aspired to from freshman days on, but all must go up the rungs of the ladder from Junior Dance Group to Orchesis I.

Miss Elizabeth Burtner, director of the groups, has done an amazing job in building this organization from a group of seven in 1939 to its present membership of sixty-one. Last year when Charles Weidman, national concert artist, gave the groups a guest lesson, he declared that Orchesis was technically the finest college group that he had ever taught.

New York called to our talented group this year. They appeared in April at the annual school concert given by the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Association, appearing with Hampton Institute, Manual Training of Bordentown, N. J., and the Women's College of Middlebury.

In answer to the problem of recreational facilities on campus, Orchesis I sponsored the Square Dance Group which has been a great success. It will remain as a permanent campus organization.

Again this year Orchesis production groups collaborated with Cue and Curtain in presenting the annual University musical. In March the University Alumni Association presented Orchesis in its own annual spring concert.

DIRECTOR
Leon Brusiloff

Few University organizations idle during the war years have made as spirited and spectacular a come-back as the University Band.

Major Leon Brusiloff, returning after five years in the Marine Corps, resumed his duties as Band Director. Before the fall term began, Major Brusiloff found to his delight a nucleus of former pre-war Band members returning to George Washington after service in the armed forces. He enlisted their aid in recruiting new members during fall registration. By the first home football game the Band was back on its feet with 56 members enrolled and still growing. It was on hand to play at each of the several pep rallies before the football games. At these student gatherings, the Band introduced to new students the school pep song—"Buff and Blue".

Homecoming festivities found the Band taking a prominent part. They led the famous Torchlight Parade, and supplied music for the pep rally which followed. Pretentious letter-formations and special music between the halves at the Homecoming game represented hours of extra practice by faithful members who were desirous of helping Major Brusiloff set an unequaled example of school spirit and achievement for the year.

With the end of football season, a little "time-out" was taken for fun when the members and their dates gathered at Sligo Cabin, Maryland, on December 15, for the first annual Band picnic.

Besides rehearsing swing numbers and musical novelties which created quite a sensation at the basketball games, the Band swung into the modern American music of Morton Gould and Ferde Grofe in preparation for the spring Concert.

The climax of a successful season came, as in past years, with the annual Band Banquet, at which time recognition was given to bandsmen for loyal performance throughout the year.

The spring Concert added the finishing touch to a year which, although the most difficult in University Band history, was without a doubt one of the happiest and most gratifying years the Band has ever had.

Bewildered freshmen and transfer girls found their problems partially solved when they received their Big Sis programs at the beginning of the year. Starting with registration, Big Sis saw them safely through the confusion of Freshman Week.

Big Sis program began at 8 o'clock the first morning of registration with a "coffee and doughnut" informal in Strong Hall Lounge. Each Big Sis met her little sis and conducted her through registration, helped her to plan her program, and answered any and all questions. This initial meeting was followed by a week's orientation program during which the little sisters were introduced to the various courses available, activities they could join, honoraries and their requirements, financial obligations, how to use the library, and "How to Get a Good Start at G. W. and Keep Going".

After the "newness" of university had worn off, the no-longer-green students were guests at Big Sis monthly meetings. Here Big and little sisters met to hear their professors discuss the various majors offered at G. W. To climax the year's activities the annual spring style show was held.

C O G S

COGS holds the distinction of being the longest-titled activity on campus—as well as one of the most active. This College Organization for General Service is organized for the purpose of serving the community through the efforts of its individual members. C O G S members are the campus "Good deed Dotties" as they rush to and from their various services.

Many projects were carried out this year under the direction of P. K. Cocroft and Helen Bruin. Dances were in the limelight—Wednesday night at the U. S. O. on H Street and Friday night at Ft. Belvoir. Potential Psych majors put their book learnin' to practice directing their juvenile charges at Georgetown Settlement House and Friendship House. Medically-minded girls "nurses aided" at Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat and Gallinger Hospitals. Sociologically inclined members wrote up case histories of the inmates of the District jails.

C O G S has often been called upon to do special services on a moment's notice, as they did in ushering at the big Community Chest Drive in the Fall. C O G S members, although always busy, know the satisfaction that comes from serving others.

Since its founding on the G. W. campus three and a half years ago, the Students Veterans Club has increased both in size and influence due to the large enrollment of veterans in the University. From its beginning as a purely social organization, the Club's activities now cover every phase of University life.

Bill Fischer, Agar Jaicks, and Dean Dreese discuss VA's Vocational Rehabilitation program

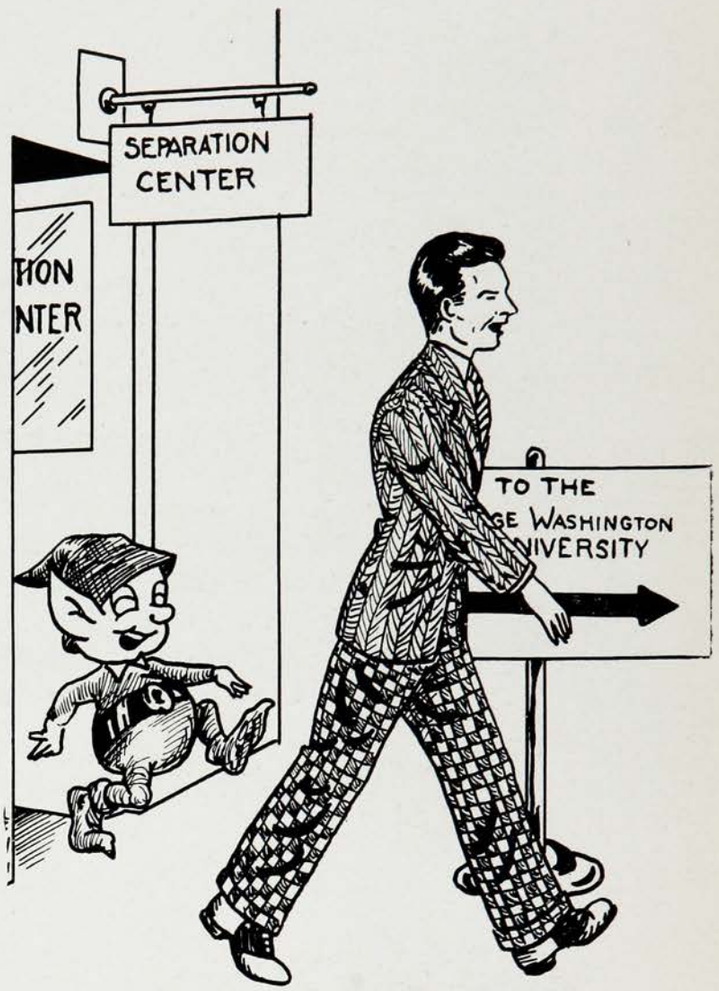

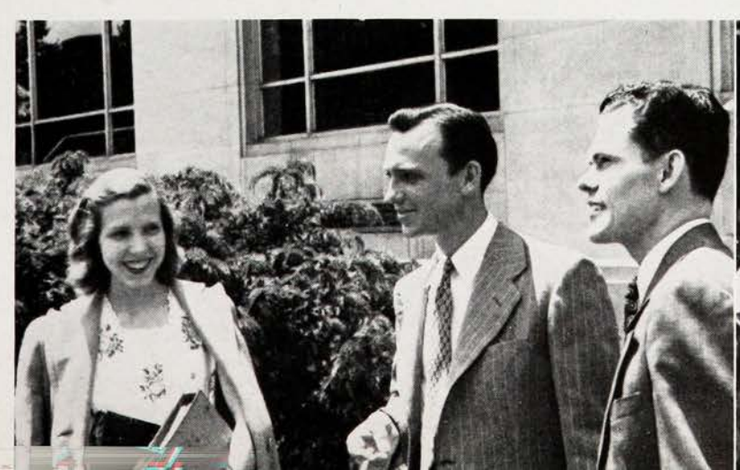

CLUB . . .

Projects have been both worthwhile and varied this year. Members assisted veterans in registration, helped to orient them in campus activities, and found part-time jobs for vets interested in obtaining them.

With the clubhouse on 22nd Street as general headquarters, many new activities were launched during the year. MAIL CALL, the club paper, appeared in the fall, with an exclusive story from General Omar Bradley to feature its first printed issue. At the same time a Flying Club was organized to keep the air-minded vets and their planes together. The Camera Club succeeded in equipping a darkroom in the clubhouse basement and has been operating on a full-time basis ever since. Students and faculty alike have been praising the Education Committee for the splendid tutoring bureau it conducted throughout the year.

The Club was just as active socially. It sponsored a full program including a moonlight cruise last summer, a barn dance in the fall, and the annual Club Formal in the spring.

The aims of Phi Pi Epsilon are to encourage and promote interest among women students in International Relations and related fields. Membership is open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students who are majoring in political science, economics, foreign affairs, law, history, or other fields in which the emphasis is on foreign relations. Members must also have a 2.5 overall average.

At its meetings, the club presents speakers, preferably women, who have been working in these various fields. Diplomats, State Department specialists, and world travelers were among those included in this year's program. Speakers' topics have included book reviews, experience in the field of foreign affairs, and discussions of current international problems.

Work is going forward on nationalization of Phi Pi Epsilon with the goal of bringing several new chapters to universities and colleges throughout the United States in 1947.

The American Pharmaceutical Association is a professional organization which fosters co-operation between the Pharmacy students and those persons already engaged in the profession. Open to all students in the School of Pharmacy, it helps them to understand better the business and problems of the pharmaceutical profession.

During the year, the American Pharmaceutical Association has had distinguished speakers from the United States Pharmacy Boards as its guests.

Under Mortar and Pestle, its social committee, it participated actively in intramural sports and also sponsored many enjoyable social functions such as dances and semi-social luncheons.

Alpha Chi Sigma is a national professional chemical fraternity whose membership is limited to men who plan to make some branch of chemistry their life work. The fraternity strives for the advancement of chemistry both as a science and a profession.

This year the Alpha Chi Sigmas became project conscious, sponsoring awards for high scholarship among chem students and planning lectures and films. To help freshmen who are struggling with chemistry, members have inaugurated a tutoring service, and the chapter, in cooperation with the National Safety Council, has set up a program to increase safety in the chemical labs.

Parties, picnics, a dance and joint get-togethers with the University of Maryland Chapter and Iota Sigma Pi highlighted an active and successful year.

Since its installation on the G. W. campus, in 1933, Beta Mu Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi have proved its worth as a professional fraternity. The organization is composed of men majoring in commerce, accounting, and finance. Members are united in the interest of attaining high status in their respective fields.

This year the fraternity sponsored monthly meetings which featured outstanding speakers from the Department of Commerce and the FBI. Members continued their project of awarding a Scholarship Medal to the student who has completed 90 semester hours with the highest average in courses leading to degrees in accounting, business administration, economics, foreign commerce, or public finance.

Delta Phi Epsilon, founded in 1920, is the first and only foreign service fraternity, and is made up of men interested in foreign service, foreign commerce, and international affairs. Bi-monthly speaker meetings for the year have covered such subjects as, "International Control of Atomic Energy," "World Student Exchange Programs," "The Future of the American Merchant Marine," "Revision of the Foreign Service," "Foreign Service as a Career," and related topics. A public forum advertised by radio and newspaper was held to provide expert public discussion of "International Atomic Energy Controls."

Social activities included joint dances with the Alpha Chapter at Georgetown University, Founder's Day, and joint activities with Phi Pi Epsilon.

The Society for the Advancement of Management strives to acquaint its members with the problems and tools of management through the study of administrative procedures. To achieve this aim, monthly meetings are presided over by outstanding authorities on management.

This year's program has been especially worthwhile. Speakers from the Civil Service Commission, United States Employment Service, CIO, OPA, and the Chamber of Commerce have been among those who presented managements problems and their solution.

Chi Upsilon was organized to further high standards of scholarship and develop friendships among women in the field of geology.

Monthly meetings are designed to stimulate greater interest and participation in geology and its related fields. This year's outstanding event was a field trip to Luray Caverns, Virginia, to study geological formations. Members attended several geology lectures en masse and had several well-known geologists as speakers during the year at their own meetings.

Main social event of the season was a dinner meeting, held at the Women's University Club with Mrs. Ida A. Brown from the University of Sydney as speaker.

One of the newest organizations on the G. W. campus is the Literary Club. Formed by a group of English majors to further interest in literary efforts of today, the club is open to all students interested in the field.

At the bi-monthly meetings students discuss their literary favorites or listen to guest speakers. Part of the program of each meeting is devoted to a study of man's attempt to express himself in creation, as well as to universal truths, emotions, and immediate problems of technical and social significance. The club provides an excellent opportunity for students to exchange ideas and information along literary lines.

Theta Tau is the professional engineering fraternity on campus. It has twenty-four active members in the School of Engineering at the present time.

Theta Tau is primarily interested in the advancement of information and research in the field of engineering. To this end the chapter from time to time sponsors lectures by nationally prominent speakers on pertinent engineering problems.

Varied social functions are another feature of the fraternity's activity. Important among them are Founder's Day in the fall and the birthday of the G. W. chapter in the spring, when a banquet, initiation ceremony and dance are held.

The George Washington chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers was organized to give engineering students a knowledge of engineering events both on and off campus, and to provide opportunities for professional activities.

Monthly meetings of the organization are planned around speakers with wide engineering experience. This year members competed for the prize given to the student writing the best paper on an engineering subject.

Activities this year included the famous 'CE parties, the annual Engineers' Ball, the Engineers' Banquet in May, joint meetings with AIEE and ASME, and numerous field trips to shipyards, factories and plants.

The advancement of knowledge of the theory and practice of Electrical Engineering is the chief aim of the A.I.E.E. In addition, members have the opportunity to become acquainted with the personnel and activities of the Institute.

Activities this year were of both business and social nature. Outstanding speakers from the field gave the principal talks at the monthly meetings, and field trips were taken to industrial locations engaged in commercial application of electrical engineering. Members were encouraged to write papers on current electrical subjects to be submitted to the national institute in competition with students from other universities.

A.I.E.E. members joined with the other engineering organizations to make the annual Engineers' Banquet and Ball in the spring complete successes.

Future mechanical engineers can meet and discuss mutual interests through the medium of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The organization strives to increase sociability among the students of Mechanical Engineering through its meetings and activities. This year's organization was the largest technical society in the history of G. W. with over 100 paid members.

Field trips, held several times throughout the year, were well attended by members and their friends. They visited the technical labs of the F.B.I., the Washington Naval Gun Factory, the Christian Heurich Brewing Co., (ED.'s note: Free beers, maybe???) and the Captial Transit Maintenance Shops.

Members sponsored several social events, including their large party following the annual Engineers' Banquet, and held other parties throughout the year.

Since it resumed activity last year, the German Club has added many new members and is planning a wide variety of activities. The club has been organized on campus to develop an understanding of the German language, culture, and people.

Meetings have been ingenious, interesting, and informative this year. At their Christmas program a farce, "Der fahrende Schuler," was presented. The end of finals in May was celebrated with a bang-up song fest accompanied by beer and pretzels.

The Friday night meetings have met with enthusiastic participation of German students. Veterans who have been in Germany have been especially interested and have helped to make this year's program a success.

In October club members gave a tea to welcome new girls to the campus. As its International Fellowship project for the year the club adopted the Philippine Islands Women's College and gave a Silver Tea to help its students more fully equip their Foods and Sewing lab. Guests from Hood College and from the Philippine Embassy were among those present.

For their annual Christmas party the girls collected toys and presented them to Children's Hospital.

Along more serious lines a series of professional guest speakers added much interest to regular meetings.

One of the brightest social stars on campus is the Martha Washington Club, an independent organization open to all university women. This fall's gay whirl started with a "Get-Acquainted Tea" for Freshmen, followed by a Balloon party, Halloween, roller-skating, and bowling parties. Climaxing fall activities were a formal pledging and the initiation of four new members during a banquet at the Casino Royal. The club celebrated the Christmas season with a gay party, Valentine Day with a tea, and the Spring season with a buffet supper. A Slumber Party and a Mother and Daughter Tea ended the social calendar.

Club members also carried on with many worthwhile serious activities. Their main project this year was the preparation of Christmas gifts for patients at Children's Hospital. The Club has done an excellent job of promoting extra-curricular activities on campus and is planning to do even more in the future.

The Columbian Women, founded in 1894, has for its object the promotion of acquaintanceship among its members, the advancement of women by the founding of scholarships in the various University departments, and the promotion of University interests.

Under the leadership of Program Director Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, the year 1946-47 has been filled with a variety of events. Monthly meetings, held at the Hotel 2400, began with luncheon and were followed by speakers. Dr. Hobart M. Corning, Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Barnet Nover of the Washington Post, and Mr. Jesse E. Saugstad from the State Department were among those featured. A wide background of topics both of cultural and economic nature was discussed.

Highlight of the social calender was a diplomatic evening held in January at the Washington Club. The year's activities culminated in May with a tea to honor new members.

The Hillel Foundation at G. W. U. is a member of the nation-wide organization sponsored by B'nai B'rith, America's oldest and largest service organization. Its primary purpose is to bring to the Jewish students and American universities a fuller knowledge of their heritage.

Open to Jewish students of all convictions, Hillel provides a twofold service to its members. Through religious services, Zionist activities, public forums, and Hebrew and Jewish history classes, students learn to appreciate the cultural values of Judaism. At the same time, through activities and social functions under the guidance of Rabbi Samuel H. Berkowitz, students are encouraged to participate in those activities which will best satisfy their present needs and prepare them for leadership in the American Jewish community of tomorrow.

All Hillel activities are conducted in its new fifteen-room house at 2129 F Street, N.W., where a chapel, student lounge, music room, and library are in constant use. In addition, formal and informal dances, holiday celebrations, parties, forums, debating, and choral work were regular parts of this year's program.

Seeking deeper Christian faith through discussion, Bible study, prayer, and fellowship, Presbyterian students and their friends unite to form the Westminster Foundation. With a club room in nearby Western Church and with an adviser to aid in program planning and personal counseling, the members have the opportunity to grow spiritually as they gain knowledge in other fields.

Typical topics for meetings were "Social vs. Personal Morality" led by a panel of Dr. Tupper and Dr. Jarman, and "What Christ Means to Me" with Dr. Linton speaking. A "Thanksgiving Musical Service" and a "Martin and McCoys Square Dance" highlighted the social program.

A week end fellowship is held each semester at a country estate overlooking the Potomac, where members enjoy recreation and fellowship, coupled with serious thinking under the guidance of prominent church leaders.

This year meetings were held weekly and were a source of inspiration and joy to those attending them, affording as they did an opportunity to prove that "we have fellowship one with another" (I John 1:7). A lecture also was held, given by Mr. James Harry McReynolds on April 19.

The Canterbury Club is a religious organization for Episcopal students on the G. W. campus. Its purpose is to supplement technical learning at the University with theological instruction and to stimulate religious growth both on the campus and in individual students.

The main theme covered by speakers throughout Christmas was the current question of "Union With the Presbyterians". The speakers were well informed men who discussed both sides of the subject so that the students received a well rounded view of the question. "The College, the Student, and Christianity" was the main topic for spring discussion.

Some of the projects adopted by the Canterbury Club were working with and training the children at the St. John's Orphange, working on the St. John's library guild, helping to run the evening prayer services at the St. John's church, and helping to distribute reading material and toys to several correctional institutions for delinquent children.

A successful Halloween party was held at the St. John's Church, and Betty Ann Beall's "rec room" was headquarters for a wonderful Christmas party. A "poster bee" and social was held during the Christmas holidays. Several outings were planned for spring, including a square dance and a Valentine party.

Intellectual activities included study clubs and discussion groups. After many of the business meetings, literary topics were discussed by guest speakers.

Dances, bowling, and skating parties made up a full social program for the club. Two formal dances were held in conjunction with the Washington Newman Club Alumni. Members also enjoyed working together on the Dramatics Committee and the Sports Committee. Another committee published the Tract, which is mailed every month to all Catholic students on campus.

Home! That is what Staughton Hall is to 83 girls, ranging from freshmen to graduate students. With Mrs. Lee always on hand to help with problems that come up, the dorm really fills its part as a temporary home.

In the fall Staughton Hall participated in the Homecoming Decoration Contest with the theme of George Washington chasing an Indian through a forest with his hatchet. Behind the scenes on that chilly November day was Mrs. Lee who, in addition to being responsible for a large share of construction on the display, was also valiantly working the hatchet which was "chopping up the Indian."

December found the Staughton Hall girls making plans to return to their homes for Christmas, but before leaving they took time out to enjoy the annual Christmas party. Mrs. Lee was presented with a leather-bound memorandum pad for her office while the girls sang carols around the tree in the living room. Instead of exchanging gifts, the girls contributed towards gifts to be given to a nearby orphanage.

In the spring, a dance was given in Strong Hall for the girls of Staughton and their escorts.

Down on the corner of 22nd and G Streets, behind a sign reading "George Washington Would Have Slept Here", stands Draper Hall, constructed and owned by the Federal Public Housing Authority and managed and maintained by the University.

The Hall, constructed from army barracks, was named in honor of Lt. Courtney Roger Draper, a law alumnus who was taken prisoner on Bataan and who died aboard a Japanese transport sunk in the Pacific in December, 1944.

The first of its kind in the Washington area, Draper Hall houses one hundred and twenty-six University veterans in its eighty-six rooms, and was opened in June of 1946. Matters concerning Draper's personnel and rentals are handled by Max Farrington, Director of Men's Activities, under the supervision of James Stribling. The supervision of living conditions and building maintenance is handled by Mr. Leonard W. Vaughan, Assistant Director of Veterans Education, through the wing managers, J. Templeton Fort, Robert Hillis, and George Blake.

Draper's student activities are integrated by three officers: a Chairman, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, who are assisted by a House Committee composed of two men chosen from each of the three wings.

Plans are now under way for a larger participation in school activities by the veterans as a unit.

"Our team is red hot!" is a familiar phrase heard more this year than ever before in the history of Colonial athletic contests.

With the war's end more than a year behind us and with the sudden growth of the student body from the influx of returning veterans, an abundance of football, basketball, and baseball material was made available for our newly organized Sports Department.

Barring the ifs and buts, we have Otts Zahn, who is noted for putting out excellent basketball teams with scanty material, Coach Vinnie DeAngelis, who you can bet will have a ball playing baseball team on the field when spring rolls around, and our football head coach, "Skip" Stahley, with a bigtime gridiron potential.

We have an intramural program that measures up to any in the country and the credit for its success goes to Joe Krupa and the enthusiasm he aroused in the men students in the various schools.

From Max Farrington to the newest student manager, our Sports Department has done a bang-up job in a short period of time.

As you look over this page and the following ones, you'll meet all those who work to make our teams a credit to the school, and you'll see those who supported these teams with the spirit born to us in 1946.

THE 1946 VARSITY SQUAD

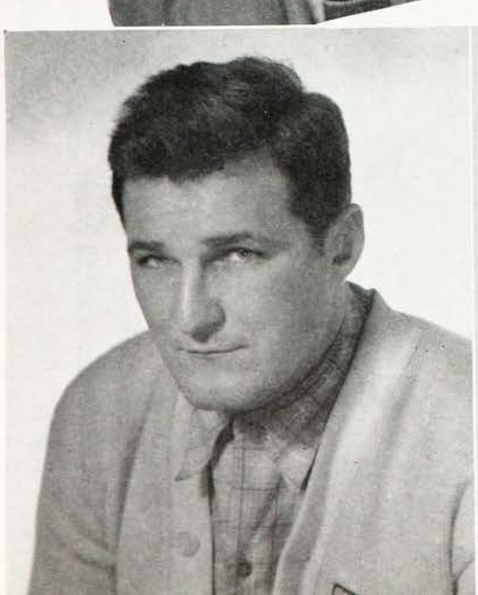

Late in August of 1946, the green light was given restoring football to the list of Varsity sports. We opened our first grid season in four years by beating the King's Point Merchant Marine Academy.

We drew first blood when Paul Weber ran back a King's Point punt eighty-eight yards for the first score of the game and our first touchdown of the season. Bob Duncan made a play by play broadcast by telephone to the student club where most of the Colonial rooters were "sitting out" the game.

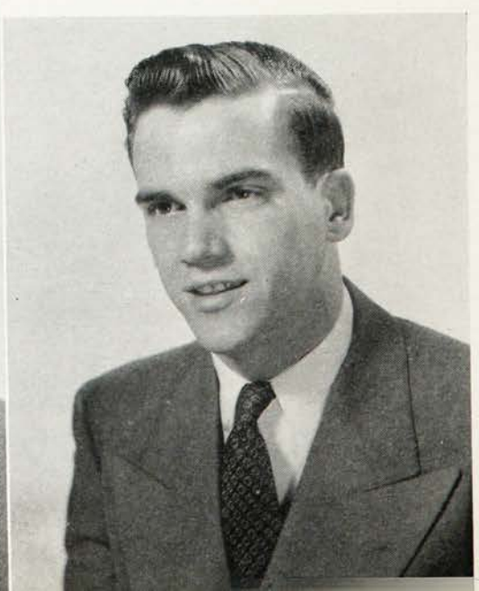

After an even contest in the first half, the Buffmen outclassed the Merchant Marines in the second half, scoring three times and rushing their opponents into the goal post for a safety. To top it off, Frank Cavallo kicked the extra point after every score.

FOOTBALL

On a Friday night, our team played Rollins College at Winterhaven, Florida. Joe Buell and Johnny Shullenbarger teamed up to give us the victory. Buell passed twice for touchdowns and Shullenbarger did the kicking when the Rollins huskies were pressing. We kept them scoreless and came out of the battle with thirteen points. It was Larry Strickland who met the Rollins College reception committee and made all the arrangements for the players.

G. W., 13; Rollins, 0

On the 19th of October the team played their first home game against Wayne University at Griffith Stadium. All of our scores came in the second quarter and netted us twenty points while the Waynemen were only able to muster six points in the last minutes of play by virtue of a last spurt of power. By this time names like Cavallo, Shullenbarger, Buell, and Butkus were in everyone's conversation as we approached the height of the season.

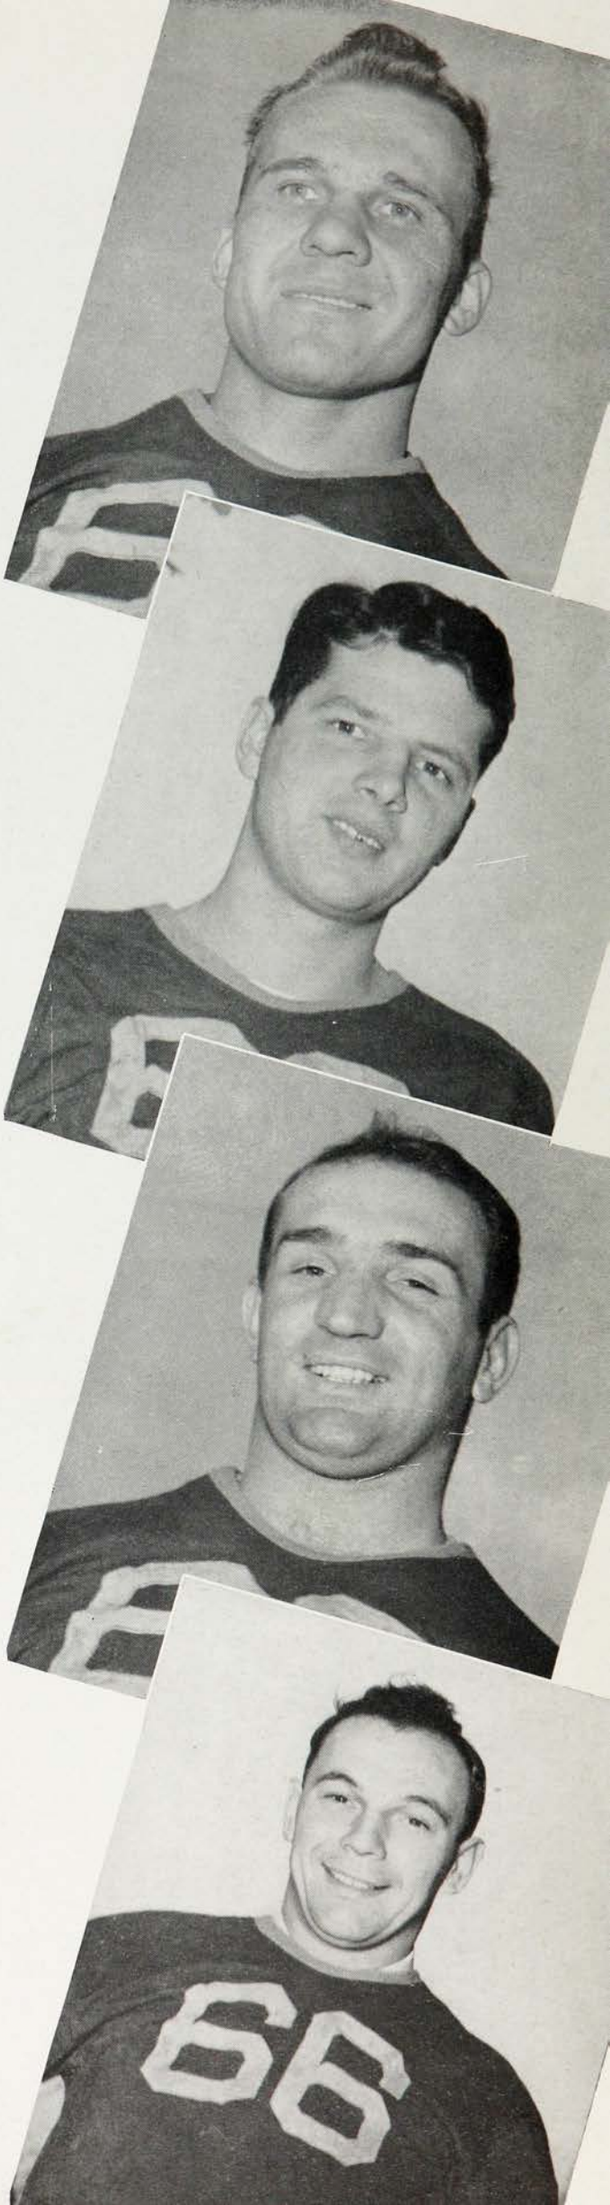

G. W., 20; Wayne, 6

With three straight wins under our belts, we went up to New Brunswick, New Jersey, to take on the highly-rated Rutgers eleven. A special train was chartered to carry a horde of Colonial fans to the game with noise-makers, cheerleaders and a trainload of G. W. spirit.

We lost the game, but not until the winners knew they had a fight on their hands and we had given them a good scare. Dick Koester, Jack Dobbins, and Ray Truck made themselves something to talk about around "these parts" after they turned out a terrific performance for the Buff and Blue.

G. W., 13; Rutgers, 25

The following week-end Coach Stahley and his charges returned to take the field against our traditional rival, the Georgetown Hoyas. They beat us 18-6 but that was all they could do. On paper we pushed them all over the field only to have them recover on undreamed-of breaks which of course are part of the game. Johnny

WE LOOK BACK ON A FINE SEASON—

Shullenbarger was elected the outstanding player of the game and Carl Butkus ran a close second. There wasn't a Colonial on the field who didn't play his hardest game.

G. W., 6; Georgetown, 18

With three wins and two losses the team traveled south to engage the Citadel Cadets in their first Southern Conference game of the year. The first half turned out to be a battle of defense, both teams kicking to more secure positions and waiting for the break that would mean an advantage.

Our break came in the early minutes of the second half when Stan Burak intercepted a pass and carried it to the Cadet's 20 yard stripe. Johnny Shullenbarger and Frank Cavallo shared the honors in the first score of the game and gave the fans a repeat performance in the last quarter. At the end of the game we had won our fourth victory of the season.

G. W., 18; Citadel, 0

In the last scheduled tilt of the 1946 season, we were matched against the strong William and Mary outfit. The game was preceded by a two-day round of festivities, marking Homecoming Week. We lost the game 20-0 but gained another feather in our cap for the great game played by the Buffmen.

G. W., 0; William and Mary, 20

Ending the season with four wins and three losses, we look forward to the coming grid season with much anticipation, and, at the same time, bid Pete Labukas, Ed Gustafson, Hank Augiesewicz, and Paul Weber farewell.

B A S K E T B A L L

After defeating four of the area's top service teams, the George Washington University basketeers journeyed to Seton Hall for a tilt with a club regarded as one of the best in the country. Although the final score found the Colonials on the short end of a 55-48 score, the Buffman forced the pirates of Seton Hall to fight from behind in the waning moments of the game.

Led by Bill Cantwell, Jim Rausch, and Don McNary, the Colonials went ahead at the opening whistle and only near the end of the first half did Seton Hall take the lead. Fighting back in the second half, the Colonials tied the score at 41-41 with but a few minutes to play, but couldn't keep up the pace as Seton Hall forged ahead to hand the Buffman their first defeat.

G. W., 48; Seton Hall, 55

After defeating the Merchant Marine Academy for their sixth win in seven starts, The Colonial cagers sank Navy 43-38, giving Navy its only loss of the season to date. With Phil McNiff and Jim Rausch holding the hot-handed Navy team to a minimum of points and Bill Cantwell and Len Small scoring almost at will, the Colonials assumed a 27-20 lead at halftime and were never headed.

G. W., 43; Navy, 38

At Durham, North Carolina, it was a different story. After fighting a highly favored Duke team to a 23-22 halftime score, the Buff and Blue fell before a determined Blue Devil drive and could not overcome the 39-26 lead Duke held midway in the second half. Paced by Phil McNiff and Jim Rausch, the Colonials attempted a comeback, but fell short and dropped their second game of the season, 52-46.

G. W., 46; Duke, 52

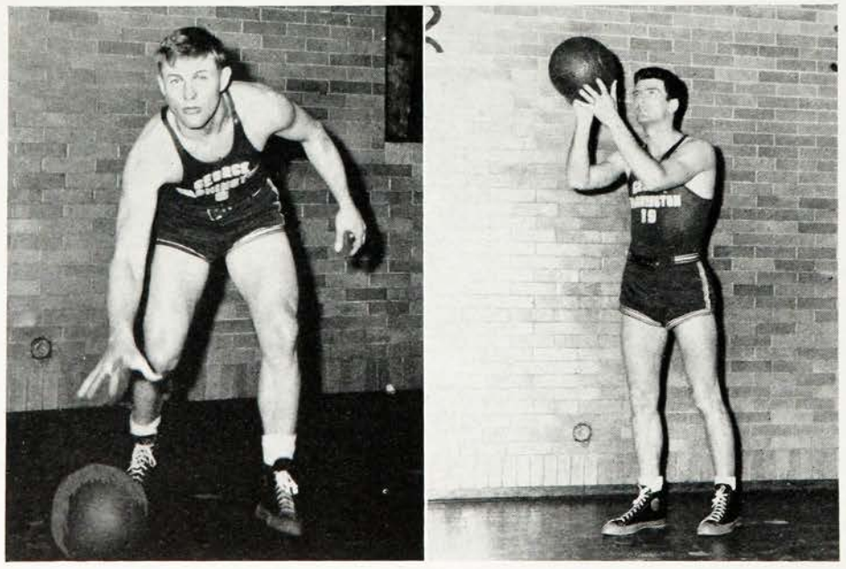

A new star was born as G.W. invaded Uline Arena for the "big game" with Georgetown University. The Hoyas, labeled as national champions, were highly favored and confident of a victory they did not find that night. The Colonials, with their leading scorer Bill Cantwell sidelined with injuries, played a near-perfect game and defeated Georgetown by a score of 45-37. Overcoming an early Hoya lead, the Buff and Blue forged ahead midway in the first period and were there to stay. Art Cerra, until then unheard of, came off the bench to throttle the highly touted Andy Kostecka and collect 13 points, establishing himself as a new Colonial star. Stellar performances were also turned in by Captain Jim Rausch and Edsel Gustafson, who proved himself to be the best backboard man seen in local circles.

G. W., 45; Georgetown, 37

On the rebound from several lesser triumphs and seeking to clinch a bid to the Southern Conference tournament, the Buff and Blue engaged Maryland, who had previously outroughed them, 43-42. This time "the worm turned" and the Colonials, once again under normal playing conditions, proved their superiority by thumping Maryland 63-48. The Buff completely stopped Maryland's fast breaking offense, absorbed the rough tactics of the opposition, converting them into points from the foul line, and thereby showed themselves to be a much better team.

Led by Cantwell, Rausch, and Kreisberg, the Buff ran up an early lead, increased it throughout the game, and coasted in to victory. By virtue of this win, the Colonials moved very near to a tournament bid and presented Jim Rausch, Bill Cantwell, and Barry Kreisberg as three of the top players in the Conference.

G. W., 63; Maryland, 48

Two top Colonials: Jim Rausch led the 1946-47 varsity squad to a Southern Conference berth; and Bill Cantwell set a new University single season scoring record with 266 points.

MINOR VARSITY

As the student body continues to swell, the demand for more sports increases with the result that most of our pre-war minor varisity athletics have been re-activated.

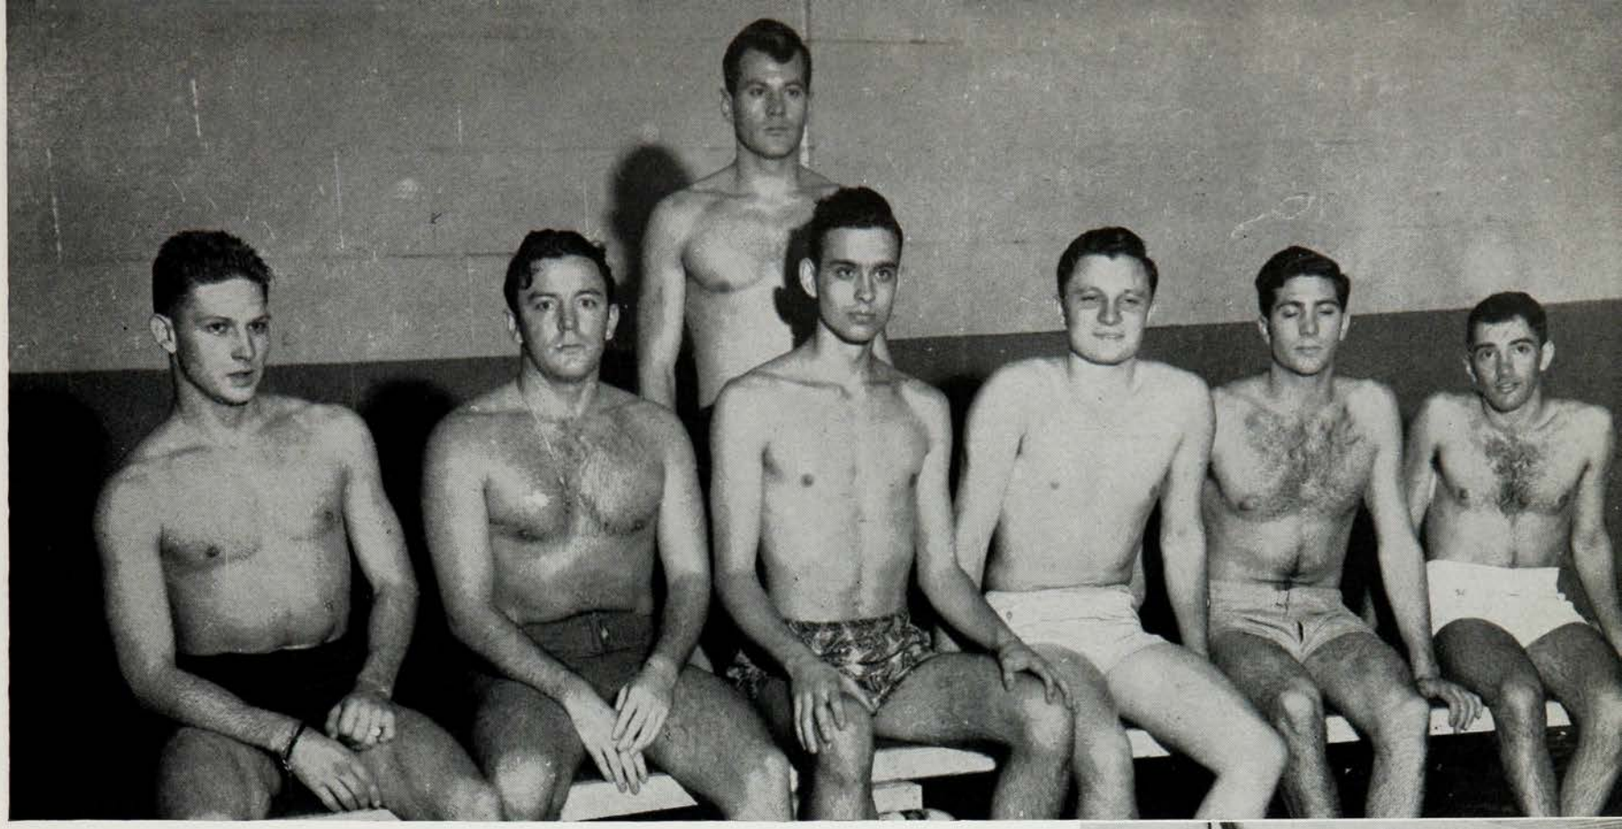

Something new on the list of the various competitions is the George Washington Sailing Association which was formed by a freshman student, Eric Nordholm, and has been received with enthusiasm by sports-minded students. It is growing in popularity by leaps and bounds.

In its first two performances the boat club outsailed the Naval Academy Middies and placed ninth among twenty-seven colleges in the Intercollegiate Championships.

This year also marked the return of our rifle team under the direction of Frank Parsons. The squad is taking advantage of this season to reorganize since the South Atlantic League will not re-open until next year.

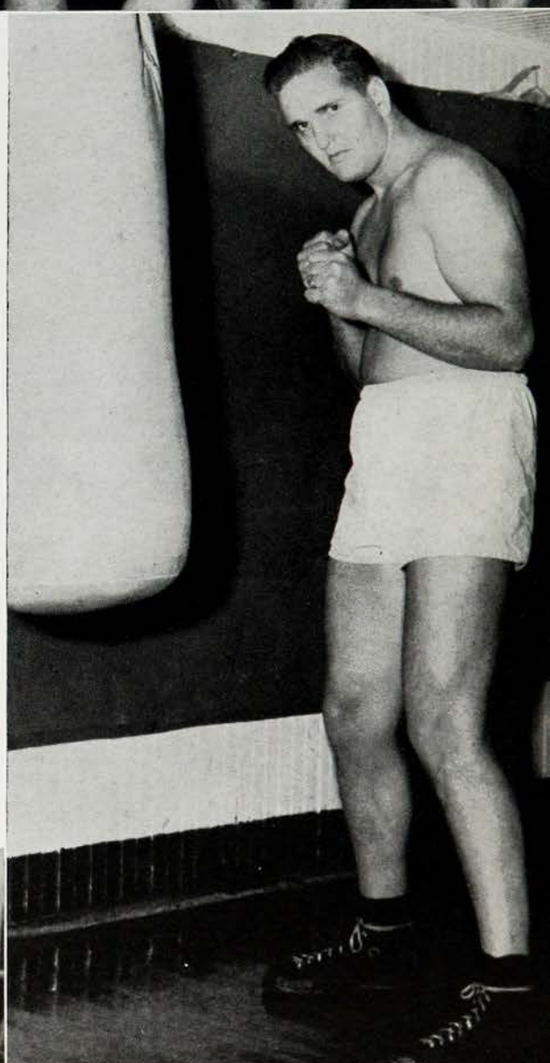

SPORTS . . .

Our teams in the past have always ended up among the first ten positions of the National Rifle Meets and they brought back the cup in 1938. Incidentally, to keep in trim, the riflemen are matched against Georgetown, Maryland, and the Naval Academy and have lined up tentative matches with Carnegie Tech, V.M.I., V.P.I., and West Point.

Plans were made to have tennis and golf return this year and preparations were underway at press time to have top-notch teams in both sports with Jim Cummings keeping his eyes open for new material for the courtmen, while Jim Hayes was acting as watchdog for the linksmen.

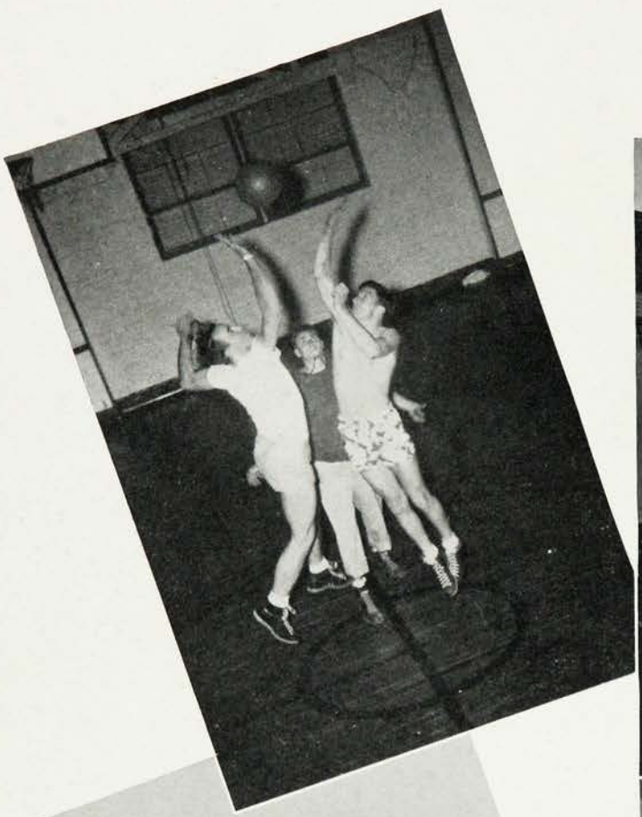

The most novel stunt sprung on the student body in recent years was staged by Bob Duncan, Coach of the swimming team and publicity director of the school's Sports Department. Without a word of warning, the Colonial tankmen found themselves with a string of mermaids for teammates—and they liked it!

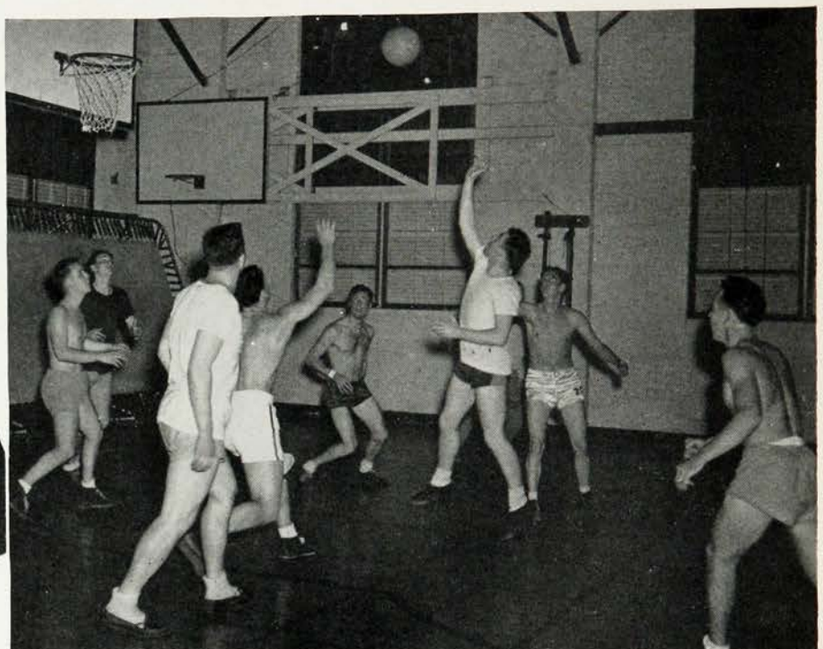

INTRAMURALS

The year 1946 was a banner year for Intramural Sports. Combining the all-out support of the student body with the capable direction and untiring efforts of Joe Krupa and his able staff, we enjoyed our most successful program of recent years. Activities were extended, more enthusiasm was displayed, and as a result interest was more widespread and competition keener.

The program's activities, numbering only three in 1940 and expanding gradually over the years, totaled twenty at the end of this year. Highlighting the program were touch football, softball, basketball, volleyball, and track, followed closely by boxing, wrestling, badminton, bowling, golf, tennis and the swim-dive competition.

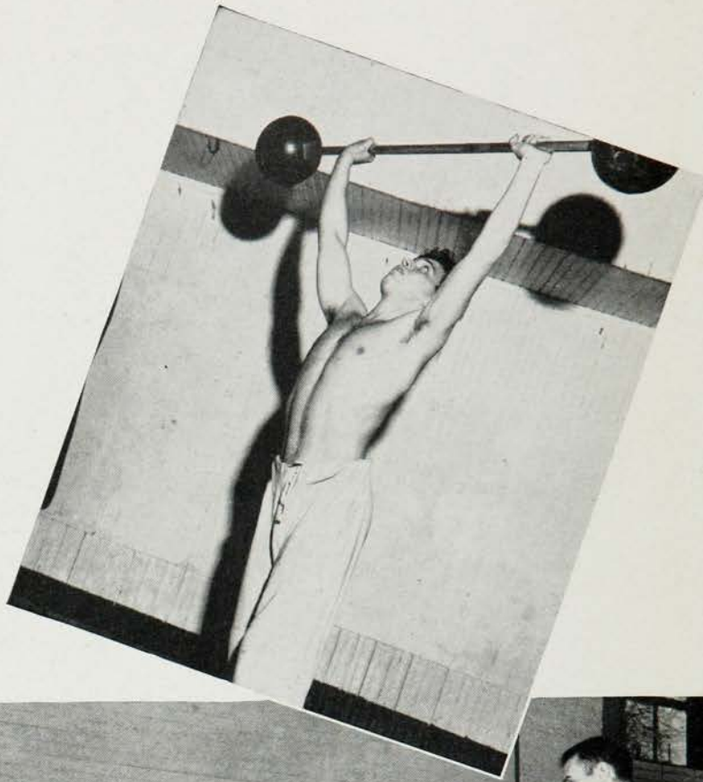

Kappa Alpha and Theta Delta Chi donned the touch football crowns in their respective leagues, after smashing their way through a season of rugged play. When the two teams clashed in the fraternity playoff, the KA's, fighting to avenge a 1943 defeat at the hands of TDX, took the Inter-fraternity championship out of the hands of the Chi Deuts by a one first down victory. The touch football season was not finished, however, for in the meantime, the Independents had formed a league and action was running rampant there.

In the Independent League play-off contest, Back Booth romped over the slightly favored Dodgers team, making them eligible to face the strong Kappa Alpha squad in the All-University Championship game. The KA's swamped the Back Boothers 17-0 in an uproarious second half to capture the All-University title.

Softball was greeted with no less support and interest than was the touch football season. In the fraternity league, it was Theta Delta Chi all the way—from start to finish. Not to be outdone, the Independents in their league displayed a bevy of fine clubs. The Bohemians, strong in every department, finished the season on top after raising riot with every team in the league. In a thrilling finish to a thrilling season, TDX, in the All-University Championship game, walloped the powerful Bohemian aggregation to grab the softball title of the school.

In the basketball picture we saw the same opponents who had tangled for softball laurels scrapping for the basketball title. The Bohemians turned the tables on the fratmen, winning the cup with a one point advantage in the deciding game.

With the 1946-47 court season half over, four teams remained undefeated, Sigma Chi, Theta Delta Chi, Back Booth, and Bradley Hall. At the half way mark of the season, 30 odd teams had been entered in the tournament, promising a heated finish.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

The fall season was ushered in with full schedules in hockey, soccer, archery, and the annual fall tennis tournament. In the HOCKEY playoffs, the upperclass team showed its heels to the inexperienced freshman teams by winning all of its games. The Odd-Even game was a walk-away for the Even team which defeated the Odds 6-0. By far the best game in the schedule was the post-season game between the freshmen and the upperclassmen. After scoring three goals in the first half, the upperclassmen were held scoreless in the second half by the fighting freshmen who then made their only score. Only the brilliant playing of forwards Ann Hirst and Audrey Wiggens and the fine defensive play of Lynn Harpster, Betty Hoffer, Leuvenia Peel and Sue Berger saved the upperclassmen from defeat.

SOCCER took its place among the other fall sports with a full schedule of games between closely matched teams. The upperclass Junior-Senior team won first place, having been victorious in all of their games. The best game of the year was the Odd-Even game in which a favored Even team was held to a 4-4 tie by a valiantly fighting Odd team. Outstanding for their play were Jeanne Read, Mickey Tolan, and Nancy Giglio.

The fall ARCHERY Tournament was held on the West Potomac Park range November 14 and 15 during regular class hours with all members of the archery classes competing. The scores of the two sections were combined to determine the winners of the tournament and resulted in first place going to Janet Doidge, second place to Leuvenia Peel, with Ann Arnold and Juanita Duvall tying for third place.

Ann Hirst won the fall TENNIS Tournament by defeating Lynn Harpster 6-2, 6-2, in the final play-offs. In the semi-finals, Mary Lois Crane was defeated by Ann Hirst while Lynn Harpster in her first year of tennis defeated Kathryn Plugge.

While the final tournaments were being played off in the major fall sports, practices had already begun for the VOLLEYBALL and BADMINTON tournaments and the long-awaited BASKETBALL season.

Spring found two major women's sports going full force. The annual SWIMMING meet was somewhat unusual in that only three people were chosen for the honorary varsity. Sue Dearborn won first place and the W.A.A. Swimming Cup, while second and third places went to Sue Berger and Calva Kephart respectively.

The impressive pitching of Lynn Harpster in the SOFT-BALL playoffs was without doubt the main factor in the winning of first place in interclass competition by the Sophomores. In one of the better played games of the season, the Even team defeated the Odd team behind the pitching of Lynn Harpster and the steady backing of catcher Jeanne Read.

At the same time, GOLF classes under Miss Turnbull were being held to acquaint students not only with the fundamentals of the game, but also with etiquette on the course.

Epsilon Chapter's theme this year has been "The Return of the Warrior". Veterans predominated both in the active chapter and in the record pledge class, whose size reflected the swollen condition of the University at large. Principal projects were settling into the new house and molding the brothers, old and new, into the typical old smooth-sailing Sigma Chi team.

Social highlights of the season were the traditional "Pirates' Ball" held this year at a nearby Maryland barn; the "Sweetheart Dance" at Christmas time featuring the selection of Patricia Calloway of Kappa Kappa Gamma as Sweetheart of Sigma Chi for 1947; and the mustomary sorority exchange dances and Saturday night house dances. Seasonal parties on Christmas Day and New Year's Eve were successful, as always.

Sigma Chi looks to her so-far-undefeated basketball and volleyball teams as tokens of the athletic success to be expected in 1947.

Both nationally and locally Sigma Chi is emphasizing scholarship in recognition of the more serious attitude of students in general. Scholarship keys were won by Dorr Smith with 19 hours of 4.0 among the actives, and by Art Myers, with 15 hours of 3.8 among the pledges.

The Sigs contributed their share of campus leaders with Loyd Price, Cue and Curtain President, and Larry Strickland, who, besides wielding the gavel for Student Council and Masonic Club, was elected to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges".

A party of twelve attended the national convention in Chicago in September, at which General Patrick Hurley, an alumnus of the local chapter, was elected national president of Sigma Chi.

This united and well-balanced chapter is determined to be a credit to the University and the Fraternity in every way in 1947, its eighty-fourth year at George Washington.

"On stage everybody!" is the call around the Kappa Sig house these days. After a three years' forced closure, the Kappa Sig players are clamoring back into the limelight. Around a skeleton crew of four returning members, they have been busy forming a new company of over fifty members including initiates and pledges. Finding a suitable backdrop has been a Kappa Sig problem, too, their present house being only temporarily held over until a new and more suitable set can be found.

The Academy Award winners have nothing on the Kappa Sigs, who boast some pretty fine "Oscars" on their mantlepiece. Honors in the form of the Interfraternity Council Scholastic Cup and the CHERRY TREE Circulation Cup have been their reward for two fine preformances. And added to these presentations, Kappa Sigs participated wholeheartedly and enthusiastically in the intramural program.

Not content to star just as a unit, individual members have seen to it that their names went up in lights. To the footlights step: Hugh McLaughlin, ably handling his roles as president of the chapter and gavel wielder of Gate and Key with lines in the HATCHET, the CHERRY TREE, Student Council, and "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges"; Bill Howard, smiling Social Chairman, duly elected "The people's choice" sophomore president; Scotty Garrigan, master of the chapter treasury, who coedits that "up to the minute, down with the column"—"Foggy Bottom"; Jerry Brastow, busy with his roles as Interfraternity Council Representative and artist on the CHERRY TREE staff; Jack Lane, pledge-pursuing Rush Chairman, and Jim "catch-me-if-you-can" Grady of Gate and Key.

Completing one of the most successful school years in its history, Alpha Nu Chapter of Kappa Alpha Fraternity resumed active status after a war-caused lapse of 3 years and has once again taken its place as a top notch social organization. The autumn rush season was a tremendous success as 31 neophytes joined the fold.

The fall season was eventful with the KA's capturing both the Interfraternity and Intramural cups as champions in touch football. Led by Norman Dancy, acclaimed the outstanding touch player on campus, the K.A. crimson and gold gridders came thru with an undefeated record in both frat and independent finals. Team stars were Howard Vorder Breugge, Bob Tull, and Orchie Bennington. Excluding the war years, it was the third consecutive season that K.A. had won the trophy and this gave them a head start in the race for the Interfraternity Sports Award. The chapter also engaged in a hot contest for basketball leadership as Vic Camp and Dick Watkins sparked the court men.

Socially, it was a banner year. Main events were the summer house party at Ocean City, Md., the Pledge Formal, held November 27, the annual Tacky Ball on December 14, and the colorful spring formal. During the year numerous Sunday afternoon exchange dances were given for the sororities. Plans were made for a ski party to the mountains between semesters in January, and there was a great deal of talk about a proposed "Lost Weekend" shindig.

In political circles KA was right in the front seat. In December, Bill McGhee was elected Vice-President of the Senior Class and Jim Walker took over the same position in the Freshman Class.

KA's are justly proud of their achievement in their first year of re-activation.

Chi Deuteron of Theta Delta Chi swung right along in the center of campus life with their house on G Street as headquarters. Theta Delts were active all around . . . from the more serious scholastic side to the social whirl.

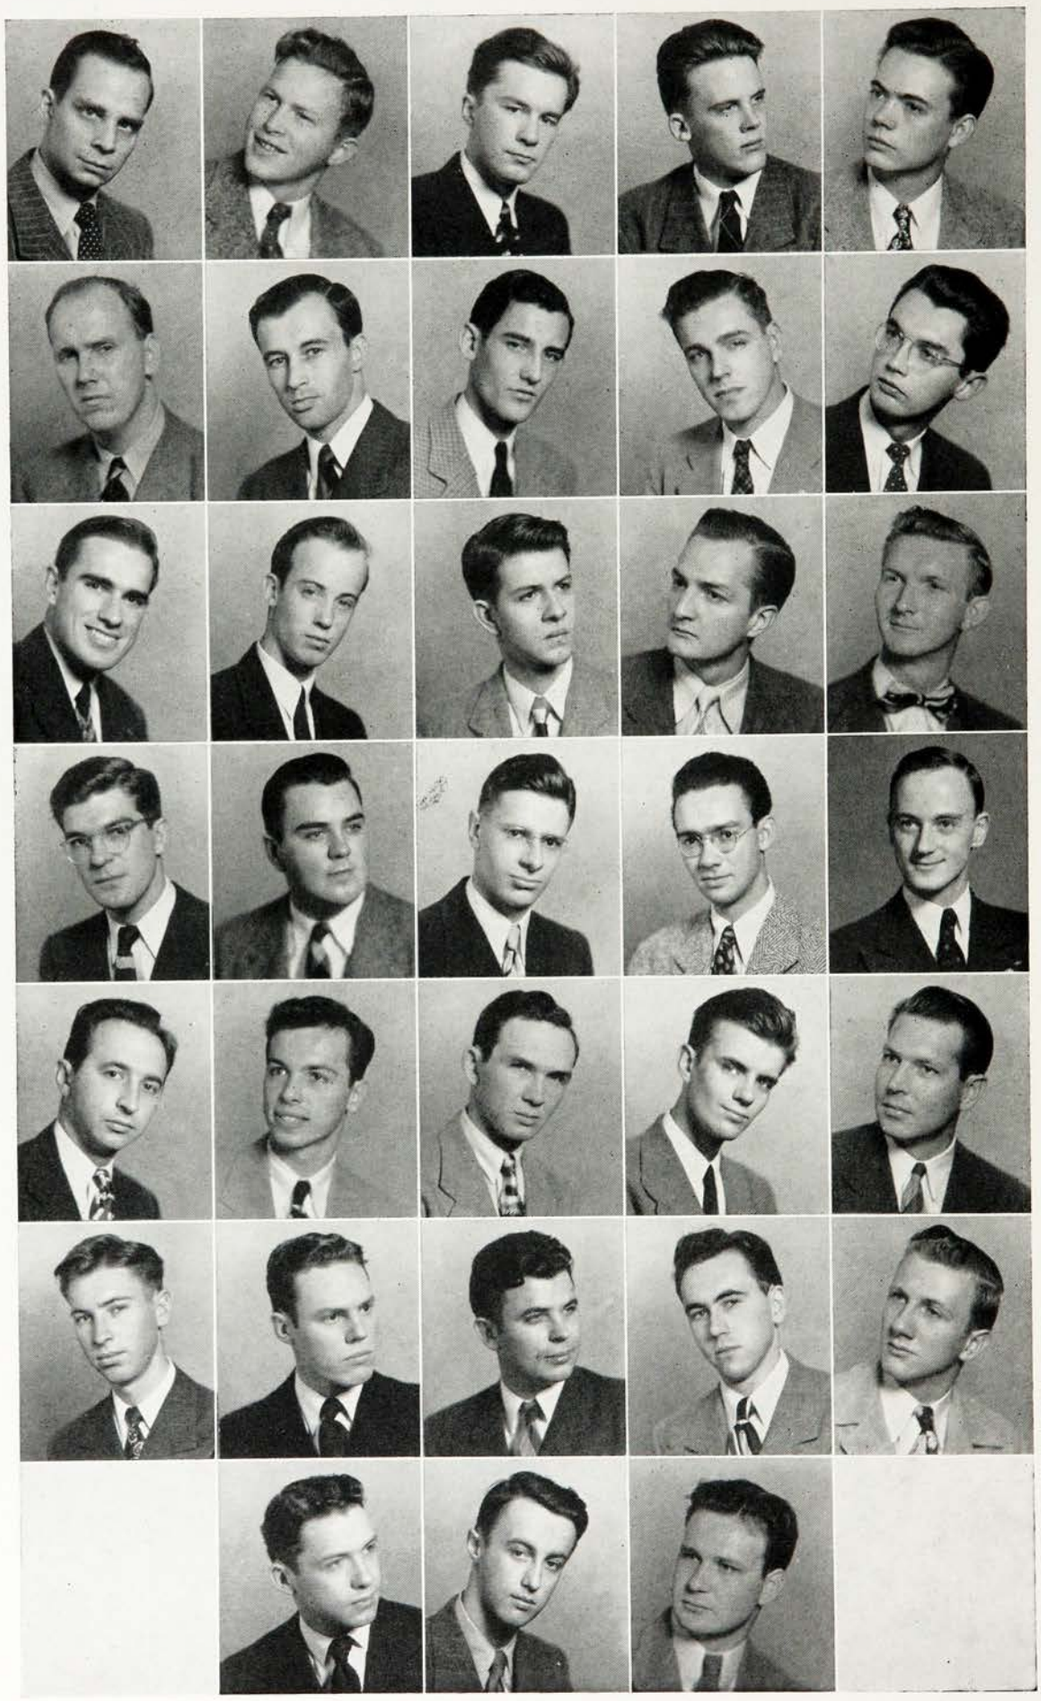

The university athletic program received more than its share of support from the Theta Delts with every varsity team having a letter man from the fraternity. Scholastically they stood high, and encouraged even better scholarship by giving an award to the active maintaining the highest average for the year. This award is the J. B. Martin Memorial Scholarship Award in memory of the only Chi Deuteron brother to lose his life in World War II.

A full program of entertainment was offered this year. The Theta Delt house was the scene of parties, exchange dances, stag smokers and numerous dances, among which the "Bowry" and "Artist's and Model's" costume balls and the Dream Girl Ball were outstanding events of the year.

Individually the brothers made names for themselves in campus activities. Bob Flanders, key man in making Homecoming the big-time event of the year, was elected to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges", along with Joe Giovacchini. Following their outstanding example, Jim Hayes became CHERRY TREE Activities Photograph Editor, and John Donahue served as treasurer of the Interfraternity Council.

In athletics, activities, scholarship and social affairs, it has been a key year for Theta Delta Chi.

Lambda chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa gave promise of an outstanding year during the summer session of 1946. A picnic with Phi Mu sorority and several informal rush parties both stag and mixed kept the house hopping. Middle-aisling were Brothers Bill Vance, Merlin Giddings, Dick Mann and Joe Vivari.

Bill Ham was chosen prexy in September to start the year's activities. In the fall rush period, the Phi Sigs waded into the mass of prospective pledges and emerged with 39 "good men". In the process of rushing, 1765 Mass. N.W. experienced five big social events: a Calle Murray ball, a southern-fried chicken dinner, a stag smoker, a cocktail dance, and the annual Farmer's Day Ball. At the latter event Tancy Garriques was chosen the Phi Sig Farmer's Daughter.

Sunday afternoon tea dances in honor of campus sororities were held every few weeks throughout the fall semester. As Bud Abbott acquired the presidency in December, active and alumni Phi Sigs of Maryland U, American U, and GW took over the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel for a splashy Christmas formal. The chapter house as a headquarters for holiday festivity was gaily decorated with all the trimmings, including a monstrous Christmas tree. A New Year's Eve ball topped the holiday season with the pledges supplying breakfast "the morning after."

Second semester rush season was followed by the celebration of the 74th anniversary of Phi Sig's founding at the formal Founders' Day Ball. The annual Carnation Ball was held in May.

Individually Phi Sigs were noted in campus activities. Bill Ham was named to ODK; Ray Glasscock and Chuck Lilien were outstanding HATCHET men; Eric Nordholm and John Dusenberre were active on the Sailing Team; Dave Cassidy, Dick Adams, and Lew Hoffacker were elected to Delta Phi Epsilon. Joe Schenck was square dance bigshot with Orchesis. The Glee Club and Band included a half dozen brothers.

"Back to normalcy" was the Phi Sig cry at the beginning of the school year, but June, 1947 revealed that more than normalcy had been attained—Phi Sigma Kappa was basking in the sun of satisfaction from a tough job well done.

Highlight of the SAE social season was the traditional Bal Boheme. This year's motif, "Arabian Nights", brought forth a variety of costumes that would have made Scheherezade's tales even more interesting . . . Other memorable events of the year began with the annual trek to Hangover Square, Ocean City, Maryland, last summer. This party was characterized by a round of headaches, sunburns, bad bridge hands and John Ward!! . . . Fall and the rush season started off with the riotous Henkel's Happy Hacienda. In typical Spanish attire, Senor Henkel welcomed a multitude of guests. The G.W.-Rollins football game was broadcast directly to the SAE house over special wire at one of their rush smokers. The rush season closed with the formal pledging of 36 men . . . Christmas and New Year's parties were successful as usual . . . Sunday afternoon tea dances with the Greek fems, the weekly informal parties in their redecorated house and the spring Dinner Dance filled up the SAE's hectic calendar.

The Sons of Minerva once again played a dominant role in student activities. Brothers Generelly, Woodward, and Cummings sat at the Student Council table while Jack Donaldson and Jim Pughe served on the HATCHET as Advertising Manager and News Editor respectively . . . Tommy Coleman handled sports publicity; Bud Goodell performed on the gridiron; Bert Awalt was treasurer and a star actor of Cue and Curtain; and Bob Barnet was Associate Editor of MAIL CALL . . . Hal Harrison, president of the Vets Club, appeared in the newspapers with General Bradley . . . Brothers Grant, Andrews, and Haldeman attended Leadership School at Northwestern U.

From winning the IFC sing under the leadership of Bill Flack last spring to achieving success in activities, the SAE's have been a winning combination all year.

Born in 1914, at George Washington campus, Phi Alpha enjoys the distinction of being the only mother chapter on campus. Since then it has grown and matured, until today, with the largest group in its history, it has become a settled part of the University.

The past year has been packed with exciting events; beach and swimming parties, Interfraternity Council affairs, and Intramural Sports . . . participation in a southern conference of Phi Alpha Chapters . . . a Founders' Day Banquet in October, when Alpha Chapter was awarded the F.D. Cup as an outstanding chapter . . . and with anticipation for the biggest event of the year—the Alpha-Gamma Reunion held every spring, a well filled two-day affair with a round of formal and informal dances, banquets, and business meetings, when Phi Alphas join together in common celebration.

. . . with achievement of individual members: Mervin Lewis, member of the HATCHET Board of Editors, who was honored by election to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges", Pi Delta Epsilon, Kappa Kappa Psi, and the Interfraternity Council; Edward Shapiro, Sports Editor of the HATCHET, honored by Omicron Delta Kappa; Herb Halberstadt, an outstanding "Who's Who" member, PiDE initiate, Cue and Curtain advocate, and Grand Regent of Phi Alpha.

. . . and with a sense of looking forward to an even more successful year in 1947-48.

Re-activating in the spring of 1946 with eight former actives on the roll, the Sigma Nus increased their active membership to thirty by the beginning of the fall term.

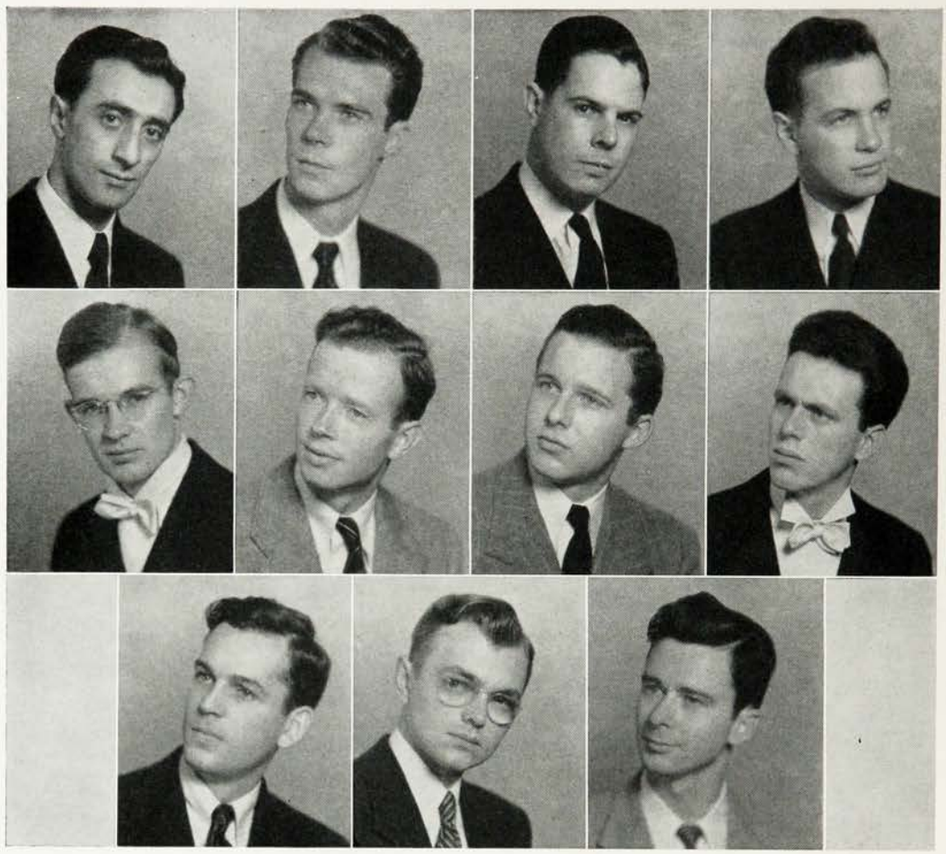

Occupying the lower floor of the red-bucked building at 2011 "H" St., the Sigma Nus in a comparatively short time converted the apartment into a modernistic suite. Probably the best tribute to this project was that rendered by Dean Elmer Kayser at the annual Interfraternity Smoker in which he said, "The Sigma Nus are actually working"! This diligence continued into October rushing, the end of which found them claiming a grand tally of 35 pledges.

With their Sunday afternoon tea dances, and numerous parties at the house, Sigma Nus have often been described as the perfect hosts and the fraternity as a source of good fellowship. Highlighting the social season for Sigma Nu was their Christmas Formal held at the Wesley Heights Community Club with music provided by the University Veterans' Band. The annual costume "Frontier Ball", a tradition of Sigma Nus, in which members and their guests came dressed in the regalia of old western days, was appraised by many as the best social affair of the year.

In accordance with the rest of the campus organizations, Sigma Nus gave their wholehearted efforts to furnishing funds for equipping the new hospital by holding a highly successful "Benefit Dance" at the Chevy Chase Women's Club. As a result more than $400 was donated to the Hospital Equippage Fund.

The Sigma Nus received their share of honors too, with Reid Baldridge as president of the Interfraternity Council, member of the Student Life Committee, member of Gate and Key and "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities"; Dick Mahoney as manager of the tennis team, and a member of Gate and Key; Jack Vonieff and Allen Whilden on the CHERRY TREE and HATCHET staffs respectively, and Jim Speaks elected President of the Freshman Class.

The Acacians, reactivated on a full-scale this year, have been busy settling themselves on campus. Sparked by the acquisition of a house at 1812—19th St., the brothers have worked hard with redecorating plans, carpenters tools, and bright ideas. By spring their house was completely furnished and finished—ready for recreation and relaxation.

Many Acacians appeared on campus this fall, ready to dive into athletics, activities and rushing. They opened their rush schedule with a picnic in Rock Creek Park and finished with a dinner party at Donet's Restaurant. The resulting new pledges immediately entered into the new house project and proved to be more than helpful in the decorating efforts. After rushing the chapter began making plans for a Harvest Moon Ball which was held on November 30. The holiday season was fittingly climaxed with a bang-up New Year's Eve party at the home of Dick Berryman. Spring activities centered around the new house. Finishing touches over, Acacia celebrated with a housewarming on February 8—a successful climax to their efforts toward reorganization.

"Anybody have a house they'd like to sell?" is the anxious query of the house-hunting Tekes. Besides having devoted the year to strengthening their membership and improving their chapter's scholarship, the Tekes have been looking for a well-laid roof to put over their heads.

When not house-hunting, the Tekes have found time for afternoon tea dances with the sororities on campus, a Christmas formal, and a New Year's Eve party at the house. In January, Founders' Day was celebrated at the Willard Hotel, and the annual Triangle Ball was held at the Washington Aviation Country Club in May.

Real estate-minded members, who know the importance of good investment, have naturally been active on campus with George Carter as social chairman of the Interfraternity Council, Hector de la Garza as social chairman of the Interfraternity Pledge Council, and Jim Stribling as student head of Veterans' Housing.

With their fine new pledge class, the Tekes are doing a splendid job of re-establishing their chapter, which in the years to come is sure to reach new heights in membership as well as greater proportions in regard to living quarters. Happy house-hunting, Tekes!

"Back to normal" might well be the designation for the 1946-1947 year of Pi Kappa Alpha. With returning PiKA's and new veteran members swelling the ranks of the chapter, the fraternity resumed its prominent position in G. W. school life.

It was an eventful and exciting year, well-inaugurated by a successful rush-week. Both semesters found the active chapter participating in the intramural athletic activities. John Quill coached the newly formed PiKA football team, which played several excellent games with plenty of drive and spirit and the chapter teams attained fine results in basketball, softball, and ping-pong. The fraternity was also well represented in "Cue and Curtain" and in the university band.

Among the many social events were several enjoyable tea-dances. A genuinely spooky Halloween party brought forth thunderous approval from the many who attended this celebration. The annual Shipwreck Ball, held at the Potomac Boat Club during December was so realistically exciting that some of the veteran brothers thought they were back on a Pacific island . . . needless to say the party was a huge success. The climax of the social year was the annual Dream Girl Dance, held during the spring term.

During February the chapter grew considerably with the proud addition of about 25 new initiates who took their places next to the many outstanding PiKA brothers such as Jim Rausch, captain of the university basketball team and Vice-President of the Interfraternity Council, Bill Warner, chief of the university band, Jack Clark, university wrestling champion and member of Gate and Key, and Henry Bardach, member of Phi Eta Sigma.

It was a busy year for PiKA with achievement on all fronts, much pleasure for everybody and plenty of romance . . . to all of which the Pikes point with pride and satisfaction.

The bonds of fraternal loyalty are not easily shattered. When, after four long years of war, ten recently discharged veterans found themselves on the G. W. campus without a chapter of their respective fraternities, they determined to utilize their common background as a nucleus for a new organization. From this modest beginning the society has grown rapidly; a chapter has been established at Northwestern and several others are in the process of being chartered.

A nondescript shed on Twenty-Second Street was rented from the university slum clearance authority and after much travail has been furnished in a semblance of the surroundings befitting a fraternal organization. The membership has grown steadily despite the vicissitudes common to veteran students and the resultant rapid turnover in personnel.

The prime objective of the Argonauts is the strengthening of interfraternal relationships, both local and national. Through the medium of social affairs open to all campus organizations, it is hoped that a feeling of unity may be established.

The organization traces its origin to the intrepid Greek adventurers who, under the leadership of Jason, traversed the ancient world in search of the symbolic Golden Fleece. Since its members have exceeded even the Greeks in the variety of places visited and experiences encountered, it is felt that the name has its appropriateness.

Virtually all members of the National Interfraternity Conference not having chapters at G. W. are represented in the Argonauts. The various universities which the members have attended are located in all sections of the United States.

After their first year the Argonauts believe wholeheartedly that their experiment has been a success, and look forward to further progress in fulfilling their objective of strong inter-fraternal unity.

For the first time since the end of the war, all 72 chapters of Sigma Phi Epsilon are active on their respective campuses. The D. C. Alpha Chapter was typical of those who returned to active status this year.

First step in the re-activation program was the acquisition of a house. Through the combined efforts of actives and alumni, the fraternity took over the top two floors of a university-owned house at 808—22nd Street, and occupied themselves for the next few weeks with a complete redecorating program. To display their good looking color scheme and furniture, the brothers held an Open House along with the Argonauts, who had moved in downstairs. Over 250 persons, representing all the campus fraternities, were present at this successful function.

The chapter's fall activities were considerably heightened by the appearance of new pledges who increased the chapter strength to over 30 members. Plans for the future include bringing the chapter up to its pre-war strength and claiming an even more prominent place for Sigma Phi Epsilon on campus.

The Pi Phis shot their arrow into the center of campus activities and scored many honors to add to their past laurels.

At the tip of the arrow, guiding it to fun and achievement was President Jean Prichard, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Pi Epsilon, and was chosen secretary of the senior class. She was joined by Bobby Borror, who performed the amazon feat of editing the CHERRY TREE and was elected to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

All the Pi Phis joined in the shaft of their golden arrow to send it straight toward activity bullseyes. High scorer Drucie Snyder, Cue and Curtain Assistant Director, could always be found in the auditorium, whether working on sets or playing the lead in "Blithe Spirit." "Ladies in Hades" was boosted to success with the aid of Molly Cochrane's vocal chords and Pi Phi dancing ability. Scoring high on the CHERRY TREE were Art Ed Jackie Perry (originator of the idea of George, the Gremlin) and Group Photo Ed Sally Dessez. Honors went to Pat Ludwig and Betty Ann Paisley, who were tapped by Tassels, and to Anne Visintainer with her election to Phi Pi Epsilon. Homecoming festivities were brightened by the support of Marion Cummins and Jackie.

The Pi Phis gave feathers on their arrows extra brushing to run up the social score. They celebrated the end of exams last spring with a marvelous house party at Ocean City, complete with lamb chops for breakfast, lunch on the beach, and sizzling suntans, while summer brought its parties and easy living. Undaunted by the local hotel strike, they launched the fall term with a dance at the Wardman Park to honor the new pledges—the success of which was undoubtedly due to Jervey's path through the picket line. The Statler Hotel was the scene of their dance to celebrate the Christmas holidays.

It has been another high scoring year for the Pi Phis, whose arrows aimed true and hit the bullseye every time.

Flash! Attention, Mr. and Miss G. W. and all the ships at sea, as the CHERRY TREE goes to press, let's take a glance at the Chi Omega news bulletins for the past year. From reliable sources, it is learned that last spring the Chi O's were practicing fast and furiously for the Sorority Sing—which, incidentally, they won. They were also industriously polishing up the five new cups they had acquired for athletic championships.

In April, it is reported that the Chi O's celebrated their Founder's Day with a banquet at the Kenwood Country Club where entertainment was furnished by an alumnae style show and by the winning goat show skit of the '45 pledge class. Individually among the Chi O's, Janet Doidge was elected publicity director of the Student Council, Joann Beames won second place in the May Queen contest, M'liss Wilson was chosen as the "Dream Girl of Pi K A," Margaret Williams was picked to wear that cherished Phi Beta Kappa key, and Jane Charrier and Marion Warfield were selected as members of Delphi.

Came the fall, and Chi O's were again busily engaged in campus activities, first winning the volleyball tournament, then taking the lead in the Community Chest Drive. Everyone was having a wonderful time at the many exchange dances, honoring the new pledge class with a dance on December 11 in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman-Park, and holding an open house for all campus fraternities on December 15. When election results were released, it was learned that three Chi Omegas had attained class offices with Phyllis Weissinger, Louise Clark, and Nancy Giglio, secretary-treasurers of the frosh, sophomore and junior classes respectively. In an exclusive interview, it was revealed that Claire Jennings was serving on the senior staff of the HATCHET and on the Elections Committee, Janet Doidge had become vice-president of W.A.A. and secretary of Inter-Sorority Athletic Board, Louise Clark had been chosen for "Tassels" and that Jeanne Pauly had been elected prexy of the Spanish Club. In the athletic department Calva Kephart was selected tennis manager, Lynn Harpster softball manager, and Nancy Giglio soccer manager.

Surveying their past record of achievement and the members' great plans and enthusiasm for the future, major critics unanimously predicted for the Chi Omegas another brilliant and successful year!

Take a dash of pep, brains, personality and talent, mix well, and you have the recipe for a Sigma Kappa girl. Put a whole chapter together and you have a recipe for a successful sorority season.

The year began with a rush of activities climaxed by the spring All-U Sing wherein Sigma Kappa won third place. The first big social event of the summer was the annual beach party held at Callawassee Beach. Exciting yacht trips, dancing at Beverly Beach, bridge games on the sand, the usual blisters—these were a few of the finishing touches that topped off a perfect two weeks. Following this were trips to New York and Virginia Beach and a flight to the Sigma Kappa Convention at Toronto by several gals.

The Sigmas finished redecorating their apartment just in time for fall rushing. Applying themselves with their usual punch and vigor, they garnered the largest sorority pledge class on campus—27 of the finest pledges that could be found! Then came a whirl of activities—exchange dances, open houses, the pledge formal at the Statler. The pledge class came through with true Sigma ability and won first place in the annual Goat Show—not to mention first place in the poster contest too! There was one other important event during the fall term—Dot Baines and her Hudson! For a 25c chance she has the bright shiny car and how we love it.

The spring term was equally successful and eventful. Another fine pledge class, initiation with the banquet following, a week end house party at Holiday House, a week at the beach and numerous smaller outings—hayrides and bridge parties.

The Sigmas were also busy this year doing things for others—they made drapes for the Veterans' Dorms and helped furnish five of the lobbies. They sent boxes to the Maine Seacoast Mission and to a two-year old French girl.

Outstanding in campus activities were our president, Dottie Simmons, Freshman Director on the Student Council; Dottie Baines, president of Big Sisters; Kitty Killeen, cheerleader and W.A.A. officer; Barbara Bacon, secretary for the Cheerleaders; Margie Rhodes, first woman editor of the Engineering School paper, MECHELECIV. For outstanding service to the University, Dottie Simmons and Nita Hall were elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Nita was also tapped for Phi Pi Epsilon while Mary Olga Longley and Louise Benson were elected to "Tassels."

With the year's ingredients all mixed, the Sigma Kappas are proud of the results of their recipe for success.

Activity characterized the Phi Mus this year, as they filled their date books with memorable events . . . summer vacation brought with it a beach party, as members returned from Beverly Beach with sizzling tans . . . picnics in Rock Creek Park and informal dances in the sorority rooms were both frequent and fun . . . the whole chapter beamed when prexy Vera Beck reported from the Phi Mu Convention at Machinac Island, Michigan, that Janet Abbe had been chosen the best treasurer of all the chapters.

The fall term started off with a bang—a blow-out on the way home from the Rutger's game held the gals up for 2 hours while they struggled with the spare tire . . . November was ushered in with the Phi Mu Pledge Formal, as the Chevy Chase Women's Club was converted into Lil' Abner's Dogpatch. Climax of the evening's fun came with the crowning of Esther Galloway as Daisy Mae . . . Members celebrated their last fling before exams with several Christmas parties . . . they honored their new initiates with a Valentine Ball . . . To further cement social relations, a Mother-daughter dinner was held with plenty of food, members and fun all around . . . The Pan-Hel Prom was a grand spring affair with actives and pledges turning out en-masse to cheer for their new Delphi members.

On the home front, members pooled their ideas and came out with plans for redecorating their rooms. All during the year Phi Mus could be found rearranging furniture, or surrounding themselves with yards of material for new slip-covers.

In campus affairs, the Phi Mus were always active . . . they took second place in the Hospital Fund Drive and performed well in all the Inter-sorority Athletic Board Contests. Individual members who excelled on campus included Jane Shanks, elected to Tassels and Janet Abbe, as a member of Alpha Lambda Delta . . . Whether participating in activities, attending parties, or just lounging in the sorority rooms, Phi Mu members share in fun, fellowship, and achievement.

The DZ Rose and Green Team participated actively in this year's campus classic, and under the able direction of Captain Dottie Jean Eggeling, won many honors for their year's achievement.

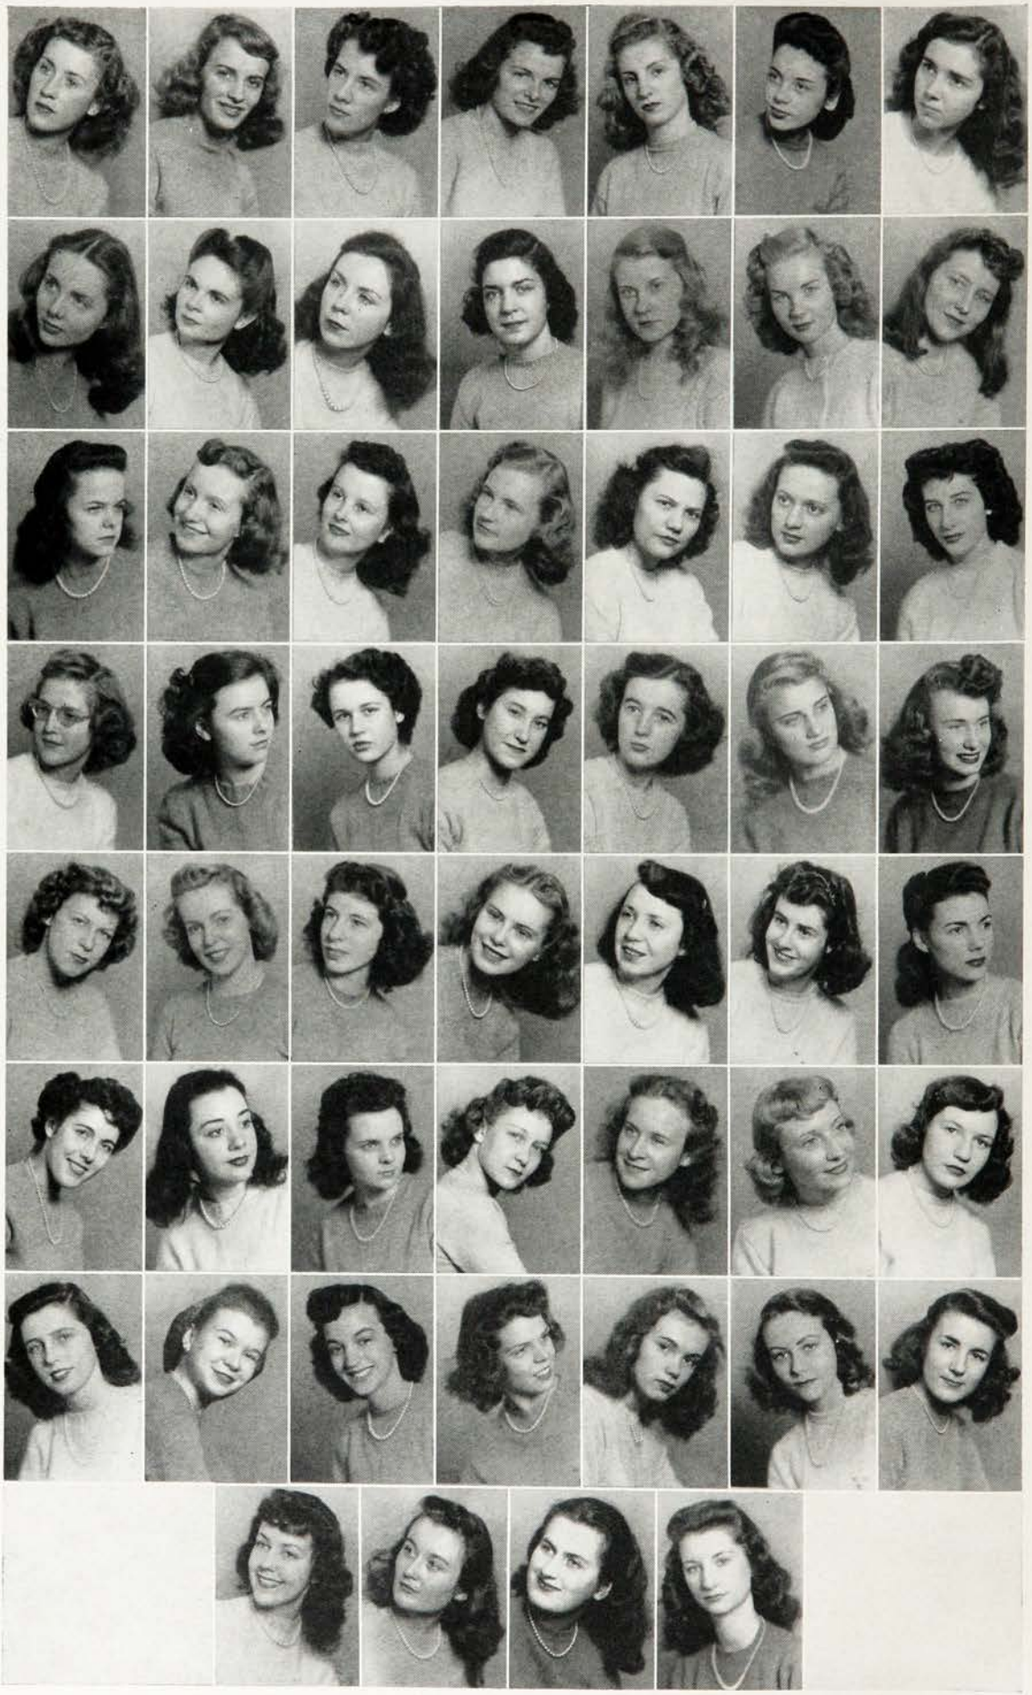

When the team got together for practices last summer they were thrilled to learn that they had captured first place in scholarship for the previous semester and had won the national DZ Founder's Award at National Convention. For recreation the team cooled off between practices at beach parties—first at Chopawamsic Park, Va., and then at Helen Bruin's summer cottage.

Fall found the DZ's ready to tackle campus activities. At the beginning of the first half they scored 21 points by rushing; and made social gains with their Harvest Ball and two Christmas parties in December. They scored a touchdown by collecting the most money in the hospital drive. Special mention for outstanding plays went to Mary Alice Novinger who called signals for Panhellenic, Helen Bruin who directed COGS, and Lois Lord who gained yardage as prexy of both Mortar Board and Pi Delta Epsilon.

At the end of the first half the team went into a post-exam huddle to hatch up new plays. They opened the second half with many social gains—exchange dances, an open house for fraternities, and their annual Rose Ball.

Many DZ players were recognized for their outstanding efforts. The six teammates elected to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" were Dottie Jean Eggeling and Lois Lord, who also were chosen for Mortar Board and Phi Beta Kappa; Trudy McNabb as CHERRY TREE Organizations Editor and Mortar Board member; Ikie Martin, as Student Council Social Chairman, head of the Square Dance Group, and Princess of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity; Dottie Henry, HATCHET editor; and Mary Alice Novinger, one of the three DZ's on the Student Life Committee. Also helping to spark the team to victory were Doe Brenneman and Helen Bruin elected to Tassels, Betty Weitzel, freshman soccer manager and Administrative Secretary of Student Council, and Ruthie Collins, prexy of Alpha Pi Epsilon.

From winning honors on the field of activities to scoring socially and scholastically the DZ lamp shone on the campus gridiron this year.

"We're going to make this a diamond-studded year" has been the guiding slogan for the busy ADPi's this year. Members started the ball rolling by placing another cup on their mantle for winning the CHERRY TREE subscription drive. Their "diamonds in the rough" (pledges, to you) followed the actives good example by copping second place honors in the pledge Goat Show with "The Revolt of the Comic Strips." Not content to rest on their laurels, they polished the edges of their diamonds by entertaining at parent and alumni teas, redecorating their rooms, going on picnics, enjoying fraternity exchange dances, helping along altar-bound members with showers, and building the "Blue and White Castle" at their annual pledge formal.

The true value of a diamond is found in the many lights it reflects, and the ADPi's have shown their worth in the reflections of: Nancy Hanck, who doubled as a member of the HATCHET Editorial Board, and was among the select listed in "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" and Pi Delta Epsilon; Ethel McVey, elected to Tassels; Eugenie Lee, ADPi activity wonder, who in addition to serving on the HATCHET Sub-Editorial Board, was elected Vice-Prexy of Big Sisters and a member of Phi Pi Epsilon along with Kay Smith, Mary Donnelly, and Ethel McVey; Marmie Winterfield, Cue and Curtain supporter, who played one of the leads in "Blithe Spirit"; Shirley Matchett and Pat Farrell who were blue ribbon winners in the fall riding show; and Elaine Conroy, CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen candidate.

Wearers of the ADPi diamond look proudly back upon these past achievements, and forward to making their diamond shine even more brightly in the future.

"Helen of Troy had nothing on Me" . . . sang the KD's as they enjoyed themselves at their Ocean City Beach party last summer. Everyone came back with beautiful suntans and fond memories of a wonderful time . . .

"The poor blighted girl never was a KD" . . . or she, too, could have gone to the tea dance the PiKA's gave the KD's last November . . . Color was added to the gala affair by the yellow shoes Ann Mibuck accepted from the PiKA president in exchange for her shoes which wouldn't stay on!

"Oh Napoleon's Empress had the world at her feet" . . . and the KD's had Lux flakes which were substituted for dancing wax at the Kappa Delta Pledge Formal held at the Hotel 2400. The management spread the flakes so thick that the members and their dates practically had to skate . . .

"But she lacked the one thing that makes life complete" . . . The orphan children at Kappa Delta's annual Christmas Party didn't, though, for Joan Stevens came out dressed as Santa Claus to provide laughs and fun for the occasion.

"Oh Elizabeth of England; Isabella of Spain" . . . The KD's had queens and rulers of their own this year . . . Shirley Green as CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen Candidate, Betty Keeler as Vice-President of Panhel, Marie Bie as sparkling Drum Majorette for the Band; Vivyan Kimmel as a Tassels member; and Donna Hill as Seniors Editor of the CHERRY TREE and prexy of the Symphony Club . . .

"They had their royal palaces, but all in vain" . . . the KD's didn't need a palace to entertain the campus princes . . . their rooms furnished a decorative setting for their Fraternity Open House and numerous other parties . . .

"For they never knew the royalty that lived down the street where the Kappa Delta sisterhood was wont to meet" . . . All the KD's were rushing around trying to move into their new rooms in International House. Amidst carpenters, wet paint and wallpaper they situated themselves comfortably in their new quarters, proud to be the only sorority on campus to boast a garden!

"Oh the Duchess of Windsor had her riches and fame, but nevertheless I'm her equal I claim" . . . the Kappa Delts certainly are with their activities and fun.

"And in my reincarnation I hope that I'll be" . . . Always on top like KD's Jimmie McClifford, Betty Walters and Marjorie Lamb when they brought home the Intersorority Bowling Championship . . .

"Not a duchess or queen but a happy KD" . . . declare all the wearers of the Kappa Delta diamond as they chalked up another year of success and accomplishment.

The Phi Sigmas "rang the bell" more than once in campus activities this year, beginning in October when they sold over 100 yearbooks in the CHERRY TREE Subscription Drive. During Homecoming Week in November they labored diligently with signs, crepe paper and confetti decorating the HATCHET office under the direction of Dot Caplan, Elaine Miller, and Charlotte Maletz. December's triumph was winning third place in the Goat Show with their hilarious skit "Touchdown Topics." January found the members working hard to collect one of the largest sums for the University Hospital Fund Drive.

Wedding bells rang "For Me and My Gal," as Sarah Muchnick, Viv Cohen and Evelyn Greenbaum took new last names. All the Phi Sigmas were social belles, with their numerous tea dances, pledge-active socials, and a joint dance with Phi Alpha. They celebrated Founder's Day with a dance at the Willard Hotel on December 7. Sorority "Belle Hop" was their annual pledge formal in March.

Hard work and achievement became the theme of Phi Sigma Sigma as outstanding members rushed about to and from meetings and activities. Versatile Vivian Burke took campus honors with her election to Mortar Board and "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." In addition, Viv found time to be chapel pianist and Glee Club's favorite alto soloist. Nora Dubin followed Viv's good example as did numerous other Phi Sigmas who were active in Cue 'n Curtain, HATCHET, CHERRY TREE, and the honoraries. Honors went to Vivian Cohen who was awarded a key for her outstanding contribution to the sorority, while Selma Wasserman represented Phi Sigma as CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen Contestant and held an office in the Panhellenic Association.

Whether serving in campus activities, studying for exams, going to parties and dances or contributing to drives and other philanthropic activities, the wearers of the sphinx of Phi Sigma Sigma are "there with bells on."

Zeta Tau Alpha's social and activity "house" was a big success this year with some of the school's best architects on the construction end.

Social construction got under way with a beach party in the summer. A "Chocolateria" given by the pledges for the pledges of other sororities laid down some strong foundations, and the girders were well riveted by a highly successful open house for the fraternities. The walls were going up rapidly when the Homecoming Week End came around, and Zetas were busy enjoying the parade and the game as well as catching more than one eye on the dance floor. In December the roof was nailed down with a Christmas Dance for the pledge class, a Mother's tea, and a Christmas party given by the alums. The finishing touches were applied at the Spring Formal, the Easter party, and the picnic in May.

Some prize trimmings and trophies were contributed to Zeta's Hall of Fame by many of its girls individually—Phi Beta Kappans Ginny Jones and Mary Bagby were elected to both Pi Gamma Mu and Phi Pi Epsilon; Joan Hyatt as vice-president of Phi Pi Epsilon and Betty Mayfield as its treasurer, carried on in the leadership field. Joan was also on the SUMMER SCHOOL RECORD staff and contributed her West Point miniature to the collection of trimmings, while Betty was a candidate for CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen. Maisie Oliver was treasurer of Pan-Hel and Barbara Stone was president of Junior Pan-Hellenic. The GRIND staff claimed Betty Ann Beall, Barbara Stone, and also Helen Leary as Business Manager; Helen was also on the MAIL CALL staff and was Publicity Chairman of the Newman Club, along with Eileen Cummings. Neala Nordstrom sparked the hockey team to victory, and Dot Sutherland was Zeta's candidate for Homecoming Queen. Eight Zetas contributed their vocal talents to the Glee Club, and all the members worked actively in campus affairs.

Zeta architects can be proud of their year's work toward building a fine chapter.

"Sing we of the light and dark blue"

Although Kappa had both her light and dark blue moments during the past year, the light shades far outweighed the darker ones. Many happy memories remain as the Kappas recall their mad scramble, 40 strong, to Ocean City last May. This excursion was made especially enjoyable with the thought of: (1) exams being over, and (2) no more practicing for the inter-sorority sing! (at which the original "Kappa Medley" and "All the Things You Are" won second place, making the long rehearsals worth while).

The Kappas also have happy memories of—the hard work on their homecoming decorations, which took second prize in the House Decoration Contest—of the monthly pledge-active dinners, the exchange dances, the Open House—of the Christmas party and the winter picnic—and of that wonderful progressive dinner and dance at the Shoreham in honor of the 25 pledges.

"Sing we of the fair flower fleur de lis"

The Kappas sing of beauty queens: Jean Kerr, the CHERRY TREE Queen; Sue Burgess, the May Queen chosen by the soldiers of Walter Reed Hospital; and Billie Klapp, the Homecoming Queen—and of sweethearts: Lorraine Seegrist, Sweetheart of Theta Delta Chi, and Pat Calloway, Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

"Here's to honors of Kappa Kappa Gamma."

Mickey Tolan, elected to Mortar Board and "Who's Who"; Peggy Pritchard, chapter president, elected to Pi Gamma Mu and Phi Beta Kappa—Robbie Lush, activities director of the Student Council—Shirley Smith, captain of the cheering squad and member of the Senior Staff of the HATCHET—Maryanna Dotson and Joan Rowcliffe, Junior Class President and Vice-President respectively—Beverle Berry, Margaret Newcomb, and Nancy Cuno elected to Tassels—Barbara Hanby, member of Pi Delta Epsilon, and Business Manager of the CHERRY TREE, and Cam Goldsborough, its Advertising Manager.

Sailing back to G. W. last fall, the DG's cast their golden anchor to establish a firm beachhead for their second year on campus. After enjoying a cruise which included a stop-over at Ocean City in the spring, they turned back again in October to G. W. where they prepared to "sign on" new crew members. They were highly successful, as 15 apprentices were added to the cause.

To celebrate their new membership, the DG's gave a formal dance at the Chevy Chase Women's Club which was preceded by a party at Marty Barnaby's. The fall was filled with bridge parties, open houses, and supper parties in addition to the ever-present studying. These activities were climaxed at Christmas time by a party given by the apprentices for the old crew—complete with Santa Claus Betty Latimer, who added a hilarious touch to the occasion.

Individual crew members brought fame to the DG vessel—June Isenberg brought a shiny new cup for her work as Homecoming Queen chairman; Sue Berger made them proud when she became president of W.A.A.; Betty Hoffer contributed not only hard work for W.A.A., but also successfully managed the hockey team. The honoraries recognized the outstanding abilities of Delta Gams as Phi Pi Epsilon pledged Jean Drew and Helen Osbourn. Helen was in the Homecoming Queen's court and was the DG nominee for CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen. Credit goes to Mary Ellen Vincent for work in Cue and Curtain and to Anna Plepis who was Social Chairman of W.A.A.

Another year has passed leaving memories of another successful voyage in the Delta Gamma log.

Gamma Kappa Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta started its history on the George Washington campus with just one girl!—Jean LeFevre! Jean started out with the Washington Alumnae Chapter and the Washington Junior Alumnae Chapter to rush during the summer of 1946.

August found the seven girls chosen to be charter members wearing shiny new pledge pins and working like beavers on summer rushing and plans for fall.

September brought with it two "colonizer" Thetas—Leslie Metheny, from the University of Nebraska, and Marilyn Matteson, from the University of South Dakota. This capable twosome led smoothly over the rough spots of rushing.

The morning of the first open house found the Theta rooms bare of furniture, but the alums had not deserted—by afternoon the rooms were furnished and ready for rushing! This competent "rushing staff" of three actives and seven pledges succeeded in gaining 24 happy pledges when results were known.

Next came plans for initiation of the charter pledges and installation of the chapter. Everyone was thrilled to have Theta Grand President, Mrs. Virginia L. Grimm, Vice-Grand President, Mrs. Pearl Higby, and Mrs. Lillian S. Wilsor, the President of the Washington district, to officiate at these occasions. Gamma Kappa Chapter was officially installed November 10, 1946, at the Mayflower, and the next day the chapter was introduced to Washington at a tea at the Washington Club.

Goat Show practices, sorority parties, fraternity exchange dances and exams filled the remainder of the first semester and the second semester was just as busy. Sorority Sing practices, May Day festivities and plans for the house party at the close of school ended Gamma Kappa's first year—a year of hard work but much fun.

A small but determined crew of "wandering Greeks" landed on the G. W. campus this fall, and have been flying high ever since. Chief Pilot Grace Cunningham and her crew of twelve sorority girls whose chapters are not on campus, have become well organized and are again enjoying the fun they had in their respective chapters.

They took off just in time to nose-dive into University affairs and the Intersorority Volleyball tournament. The Argonauts were guests at their successful open house for which the Kappas generously lent their rooms. Miss Towne, their advisor, held a tea for them and served such superb food that the girls almost gave up their activities to become Home Ec majors.

Individual members have been high-flying too—Joy Saalfrank has been busy as Copy Editor of the CHERRY TREE and pledge of Phi Pi Epsilon, while Grace Cunningham has been running the club gauntlet with the Canterbury, Symphony and Square Dance groups.

The Omicron Alpha crew has had a successful first hop and hopes to fly even higher next year.

Experience

LYNCHBURG ENGRAVED ANNUALS ARE BUILT UPON YEARS OF EXPERIENCE AS SPECIALISTS IN THE FIELD OF SCHOOL PUBLICATIONS

IN successfully fulfilling the requirements of the modern College Annual Staff we have combined a comprehensive and systematic servicing program with that high standard of quality so essential in the production of fine yearbooks. Lynchburg engraved annuals are built by an organization specializing on school annuals exclusively, thereby assuring each staff of the personal and intelligent assistance so necessary in the planning and designing of a truly satisfactory book.

Acknowledgements

The editors of the 1947 CHERRY TREE are grateful to all the friends who have helped us issue this book. We should like to express special appreciation to:

Mr. John T. Benson and Mr. Dan Eadie of the Benson Printing Company for their help and understanding;

Our official photographer, the Chidnoff Studio, for its cooperation under difficult circumstances;

The alumni Office for the use of pictures from its files;

THE HATCHET for its cooperation as a fellow publication and for the use of its facilities;

The Student Council for its continued support;

The Holbrook Studio for the "Who's Who" and "Cue and Curtain" shots and for many activities photos;

THE WASHINGTON POST and the Veterans Administration for pictures from their files;

Miss Kirkbride's office for its friendly cooperation;

Jim Broy, Ed Coe, and Burdett Warden and the other individuals not on the staff who have helped us;

Betty Harris for her exceptional loyalty in working after leaving school;

The editor's roommate who patiently endured her fantastic hours and hundreds of phone calls;

Those members of the staff who gave freely of their time, effort, and money to publish this volume; and to

The student body who supported it.
